AMBASSADOR MEYER'S OFFICIAL REPORT OF THE ODESSA REBELLION.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Ambassador Meyer cables the State Department from St. Petersburg to-day at 6:07 a. m., the United States Consul's official report from Odessa that the harbor front has been destroyed by fire; the rebel battleship, Kniaz Potemkin, is bombarding the city and that at least 500 rioters have been killed. The Russian Black Sea fleet has not yet arrived.

TROOPS AND MUTINEERS AT LIBAU FIGHT PITCHED BATTLE

ODESSA IS BOMBARDED, WATER FRONT BURNED, NAVAL FIGHT AT HAND

Russian Fleet Ordered to Attack Mutineers in Harbor, and Ships Are Reported to Be Nearing the City—Thousands Killed and Wounded.

ODESSA, June 30, 12 o'clock.—Part of the Russian Black Sea fleet from Sebastopol is reported several miles out, approaching Odessa. There is great excitement.

Vice-Admiral Kruger, in command, has orders to sink the rebel battleship Kniaz Potemkin and the four other vessels which have joined the mutineers if they will not surrender.

There is a growing belief that the sailors of the fleet will refuse to fire on their comrades. In that event it is not impossible that the whole fleet will pass into the hands of the rebels.

REBELS SHELL CITY.

The Kniaz Potemkin shelled Odessa for a time last night. The loss of life from this bombardment and from street fighting is now estimated at thousands. The estimate of wounded is still greater.

Now the Potemkin lies in the harbor, guns trained on the Governor's palace, awaiting the appearance of the fleet. Six Russian merchantmen have been halted and lie under her guns.

Thousands are rushing from the city. If a naval battle results there is a fear that Odessa, which lies in battle range, will be destroyed.

DECLARES WAR IN ODESSA.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—Reports to the Czar of spreading revolution throughout Russia, as a result of the Odessa situation, have caused him to issue an ukase, declaring a state of war exists at Odessa and district. Now there are grave fears for the loyalty of the army. This is the last bulwark between the Czar and his people.

LONDON, June 30.—This city hears by news dispatches that another rebel battleship lies at Cape Fontaine, ten miles from Odessa. Further, it has heard that mutiny has already broken out in the units Black Sea fleet, said to be approaching Odessa.

SEBASTOPOL, June 30.—Vice-Admiral Kruger, with the Russian Black Sea fleet, has sailed for Odessa, under orders from the Czar to sink the rebel vessels there if they will not surrender.

Dispatches received here say that the transport Vedlia, which was at Odessa, has joined the rebels there, and that their officers were seized and handed over to the battleship.

WOULD STRIP WASHINGTON BARE OF TREES

Purchase of Mountain Discloses Plan to Denude Whole Presidential Range of Forests.

MENACE TO THE STATE

The purchase of Mount Washington, most famous of all peaks in the Eastern part of the United States, has disclosed the fact that a great lumber company has purchased the entire Presidential range in New Hampshire, and is making plans that will result in the denuding of the mountains of all their forests.

The commercial hirsute aims to shear these mountains of their scenic beauty that has made them nature's greatest showspots east of the Rockies.

Leaving aside the mutilation of the beauties of the mountains, New Hampshire must suffer seriously in a physical way from the shrinkage in rainfall that would follow the denuding of the hillsides of their covering of trees.

Price Was $475,000.

Mount Washington was sold yesterday for $475,000. Robert Osgood of Boston purchased it. Mr. Osgood is the head of the Bartlett Lumber Company, and his purchase is generally for the uses of that company or a pulp company, either of which would spoil the grandeur of its thousands of acres of timber.

The Bartlett Lumber Company already owns 200,000 acres of timber land, including every peak in the Presidential range, and the greater portions of the mountains themselves.

By the purchase of Mount Washington Mr. Osgood gains all the land in the mountain except the small tract owned by the Boston & Maine Railroad and occupied by hotel property.

"I will be thirty days before I can say positively what will be done with the property," said Mr. Osgood to-day in a report of the BOSTON AMERICAN. "A paper company desires to purchase it, and two lumber companies have already made offers for it. If it goes to a lumber company, it will be stripped of its growth wood. If the pulp company, on the other hand, would take all wood, saplings as well as trees.

"There is a bill in Congress to make of Mount Washington a government reserve, in similar to the Yellowstone National Park.

"Nothing will be done to embarrass the government," said Mr. Osgood. "When the bill comes up in Congress, if the government desires to secure the property, it will be able to do so. If it does not want it, it will be used for commercial purposes, as first planned.

"For years there has been no end of haggling over the proprietorship of this monarch of the Presidential range of the White Mountains, and it would be without parallel have been instituted by various claimants. At last the Supreme Court stepped in and ordered that the mountain be sold at auction to the highest bidder.

"The property consists of approximately 100,000 acres of mountain and vale, forest and plain. It was sold for $475,000 to Robert Osgood. Auctioneer Walter S. Perry conducted the sale, the largest amount of real estate ever bought or sold in Boston. In the rooms of the Boston Real Estate Exchange.

4,000 Sailors Surrounded in Forest Fighting Czar's Soldiers to the Death---Battle Has Lasted Two Days.

LIBAU, Russia, June 30.—A strong force of infantry, reinforced by machine guns, is besieging 4,000 mutinous sailors from the post of Alexander III., located here, in a small wood near this port. Fighting between the rebels and the troops has been in progress for some time, but the outcome is unknown.

The mutiny started Tuesday night in the revolt of the first equipage, the name applied to the naval units, against the bad food served the sailors. The sixth, ninth, thirteenth and fifteenth equipages at once joined the mutiny, making 5,000 men in all. Of these, 1,000 have since surrendered. The remainder are fighting the troops sent to subdue them.

The sailors wrecked the barracks and then attacked the officers' quarters. They seized the government stores and secured arms and ammunition.

Early Wednesday morning troops arrived on the scene and began a systematic attack on the mutinous sailors. They have been gradually driven back into the forest and surrounded.

The firing from the direction of the forest has been incessant, the mutineers defending themselves desperately. Volleys and scattering shots are heard at frequent intervals, interrupted by the hum of the machine guns. The police have forced the people off the streets and ordered them to keep away from the ports, so that it is impossible to state how the battle has gone.

Libau is one of the most important naval stations of Russia. It is on the Baltic Sea, north of Lake Libau and is enclosed by walls. The naval stations lie just outside this wall. The population of Libau is given as 28,000, this exclusive of the military and naval forces which are stationed there. It has a large trade.

Czar Says War Exists in Odessa and District

Ukase by the Czar to the Ruling Senate:

In order to guarantee public safety and to terminate the disorders at Odessa and in neighboring localities, we have found it necessary to declare a state of war in Odessa and district and to invest the commander of the troops in the military district of Odessa with the rights of military authority and special rights of civil administration for the defence of order and public tranquillity.

What the Rebels Have Done By Land and Sea at Odessa

Forced the Czar to admit that civil war exists.

Caused a loss of life estimated in thousands; other thousands are reported wounded.

Attempted to establish a provisional government. This may have been done by this time.

Captured a battleship, two torpedo boats, a transport and a collier.

Burned four vessels in the harbor.

Compelled all foreign ships to lie quiet under their guns.

Set fire and destroyed hundreds of loaded freight cars.

Twice fired upon Odessa, with considerable loss of life.

Landed machine guns from the rebel battleship and swept streets clean of the Czar's troops.

U. S. CONSUL SAYS NO SIGN OF FLEET

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The State Department has received the following official reports from United States Consul Heenan at Odessa:

"ODESSA, June 29, 6:31 p. m.—Battleship firing on town. No fleet."

"ODESSA, June 29, 10:15 p. m.—Six officers of the Potemkin killed, eight liberated here. Remainder prisoners. Fleet has not arrived. Odessa Harbor front largely destroyed by fire. Fifty rioters killed. Many Russian steamers burned. Battleship has remained quiet."

This second dispatch was apparently held up at Odessa before transmission.

FLEET ORDERED TO SINK REBEL SHIPS

ODESSA, June 30, 11:30 a. m.—It is reported that a part of the Black Sea fleet under the command of Vice-Admiral Kruger is approaching the city, although the vessels are still some miles away.

The greatest excitement has been created by this report and fears are expressed as to what will come to pass when the fleet arrives.

Vice-Admiral Kruger's orders are to call upon the Kniaz Potemkin to surrender, and in case of the refusal of the crew to obey this order, to sink the battleship. If an attempt is made to carry out this program a naval engagement between the rebellious battleship and the rest of the fleet is certain to occur.

Sailors May Mutiny.

Extreme doubt is felt, however, as to the

COSSACKS HASTEN TO JEWISH CENTRE TO MEET CRISIS THERE.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, June 30.—A message received here from Kishineff says that a general strike has been declared in that town. Cossacks have seized the place and are patrolling the streets to prevent the strikers from committing outrages.

General Czernoulouecki, chief of the Bessarabian gendarmerie, was assassinated in his home yesterday.

NEGRO STRIKE OFFICER IN CHICAGO SHOOTS LAD OF 15 WHO LED RIOTERS.

CHICAGO, June 30.—Leading a mob against Thomas Johnson, a negro special strike policeman, Michael Mejedly, aged fifteen, was shot. He died at the hospital.

According to the police, the mob, numbering 500, surrounded Johnson, threatening violence.

ALLOWS HANGING BUT OPPOSES IT

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., June 30.—Berkley Smith was hanged here to-day for the murder of his wife in Indianapolis. Smith marched from the death chamber to the gallows and took his position upon the trap with no apparent show of trepidation.

Governor Hanly refused to interfere in the case of Smith.

"Personally," said the Governor, "I am opposed to capital punishment. I have a profound conviction that the State has no moral right to take the life of a citizen, save in self-defence, as in the enforcement of the law, the maintenance of peace and order, or as in case of riot, insurrection or rebellion.

"As to the wisdom of such punishment and the moral right of the State to inflict it, I shall appeal to the people and ask that the provision be stricken from the law by the next General Assembly.

HEIRS TO FIGHT FOR MILLION

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 30.—A bitter fight for the $1,000,000 left by Samuel Fales Dunlap, who died March 31, aged 80, at No. 18 West Twenty-second street, is threatened. In an undated will, filed a month ago, the estate is left to his nephews—Halliburton, Samuel W. and Joseph Bridgeham.

Another will has been filed now, leaving to Mrs. Rose A. Eahlon 100 shares of railroad stock; to Joseph and Halliburton Bridgeham, a house in Boston; to Samuel W. Bridgeham, a picture of the testator's grandfather, and to Halliburton Fales the entire residuary estate.

SEA BATTLE IS PENDING

ability of Vice-Admiral Kruger to make his sailors fire on their comrades. It is generally believed that the crews would rather join in the mutiny. The allegiance of the Black Sea sailors has been frequently questioned. What they will do in the crisis which will face them when they arrive here is problematical.

The vessels which are expected to arrive in the fleet are the Tri Sviatitelnaia, the Dvienadsat Apostoloff, the Rostlav and Sinope, all of which are battleships, the cruiser Kazarski and several torpedo boats.

The announcement that the fleet is approaching the city has been responsible for a hurried effort on the part of thousands of citizens to leave Odessa. Vehicles of every description were pressed into service by panic-stricken residents in their haste to get away. The roads leading into the country are thronged with wagons, carriages, buggies and carts of all kinds. The people fear a great naval battle will take place in the harbor and that damage will be inflicted upon the town during the course of the fight. Every railway train which leaves the city is packed to suffocation. At the Grand Station a large force of police was required to maintain order among the thousands which struggled to obtain tickets.

The only other railway station in the city is located near the New Mole in the dock district, which has been given over to the troops. This necessitates the departure of all the frightened citizens from the Grand station and scenes of indescribable confusion have been reported there, men and women fighting for places in line to approach the window of the ticket sellers. There has been no renewal of the fighting between the troops and the strikers up to this hour.

Rebels Blockade Port.

During the bombardment last night by the Kniaz Potemkin three shots were fired into the city. The battleship lies in the harbor, directly opposite to the palace of the Governor General, and it is believed the gunners tried to hit the palace. Their aim was bad, however, and the palace was not touched. None of the buildings which were hit were important structures. One of the shells narrowly missed the School of Commerce in Preobrjenskaia street.

At midnight the Kniaz Potemkin established a blockade of the harbor, and no vessels flying the Russian flag are allowed to enter or leave the port. Six steamers which attempted to leave were stopped by the battleship and now lie at anchor under her guns.

The Czar's ukase proclaiming a state of war in Odessa is addressed to the ruling Senate, and says:

"In order to guarantee public safety and to terminate the disorders at Odessa and neighboring localities, we have found it necessary to declare a state of war in Odessa and district and to invest the commander of the troops in the military district of Odessa with the rights of military authority and special rights of civil administration for the defence of order and public tranquility."

REBEL WARSHIP BOMBARDED CITY

LONDON, June 30.—Diplomatists here declare that a grave international crisis is almost at hand from the situation at Odessa. English, French and other warships can only reach there through the Dardanelles, and the treaty of Paris closes this passage to all vessels of war save those of Russia and Turkey.

From Odessa to-day London hears that there was a temporary lull in the rioting after last night. It says, however, that the strikers are by no means overawed, and have only been cowed for the moment by the presence of a large number of troops with machine guns.

The bombardment last night by the Kniaz Potemkin did little damage in the city, say reports. Only a few shots were fired, and these did little harm, except to two buildings which were struck by the shells. The reason for the bombardment was that the sailors thought an attack had been made on their comrades who were sent ashore to conduct the funeral of Vakulinchuk, the sailor whose death led to the mutiny on board the warship.

THREATEN TO BURN CITY.

The warship still has her guns pointed toward the city, however, and is a constant menace. The strikers and mutineers are determined to utilize the battleship which is their main defence.

Formal notice was served to-day on the commandant of the troops that if there is a renewal of the massacre of the people by the soldiers the bombardment will be renewed and conflagration started. Strikers are driven from the city. The strikers are without food, and are starving in their entire town.

The authorities have closed Primorskaia, Voennyspousk, Kanatnaia, Maezilivcika and Quarantine streets, thus isolating the dock district, which has been the scene of the greatest disorders.

It is reported that 1,000 persons were slain and 2,000 wounded in the fighting in Odessa streets Wednesday night and yesterday. The death list is being constantly swelled.

EFFECTS OF POTEMKIN'S SHELLS

The Daily Mail prints a dispatch from its Odessa correspondent saying that the Potemkin, using full charges, has opened fire on the city. The first shell struck a house in Nyeshinskaya street and the second fell on a brewery. In the walls of both buildings large holes, six yards wide by three yards high, were torn.

The city government ordered the gas lamps extinguished and the electric currents severed, so that the city was in total darkness. Large bodies of troops have arrived. It is reported there was altogether 10,000 in Odessa.

Sir Hugh Bell arrived with a commission to investigate the condition of affairs proceeded. Firing the Red Cross flag to the opposite side of the bay and reported two warships are lying at the harbor end of one of the main streets, opposite Little Fontaine.

ANOTHER SHIP REBELS.

The Daily Express prints a dispatch from Odessa which reports that a second mutinous warship is at Cape Fontaine, ten miles from the city, and says:

"A transport with Russians from Port Arthur and a Russian steamer were held up by the Kniaz Potemkin at 5 o'clock and compelled to lie under her guns for two hours.

"At 7 o'clock the rebel warship steamed two miles off, but shortly afterward returned to her former anchorage and fired several shots at the soldiers' barracks, where there is a detachment of Cossacks. She then swung round until her guns pointed to the centre of Odessa and fired a blank cartridge. A steamer which the Kniaz Potemkin stopped was seen to burn blue lights.

"A bomb thrown in a street killed six persons. The city penitentiary, in which there are 2,000 prisoners, had a narrow escape from being blown to pieces last night. Fifty men laid planted a number of powerful fuse bombs on the outer wall but they were discovered.

CRUISER SARATOFF BURNED.

It is reported that the volunteer fleet cruiser Saratoff has been burned at Odessa.

A dispatch from Sebastopol says the battleships Tri Sviatitelia, Sinope and Rostislav, with a cruiser and several torpedo boats, only started for Odessa at 8 o'clock last evening. This explains the non-appearance of the squadron at Odessa, but it is difficult to conjecture the reasons for delaying departure two days at such a critical juncture.

IMMENSE LOSS OF PROPERTY.

Another dispatch, received from Odessa which may have been delayed by the authorities, says:

"A great fire is destroying the shipping in the harbor and the buildings along the shore. The military everywhere are shooting into the crowds, which are panic-stricken and madly rushing hither and thither for shelter. The number of victims is large. A state of seige has been declared in the city.

"The conflagration is sweeping along the harbor front, the sailors and soldiers preventing attempts to extinguish the flames. Three unlinsured ships of the Pan-Russian Company have been destroyed. The office of the port administration, the stores of the Pan-Russian, Koshkin and Ensenig companies and many private establishments and woodyards have been burned. The fire is now consuming long lines of railroad cars containing cargoes unloaded from foreign ships.

"The surviving officers of the battleship Kniaz Potemkin number eleven, instead of eight. A number of them were set ashore to-day by the mutineers. They confirm the details of the mutiny cabled yesterday."

RIOTS EXTEND OVER TWO GOVERNMENTS IN SOUTH RUSSIA

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—Agrarian riots extend over practically the entire government of Kherson. Many estates have been plundered, their owners fleeing to Elizabetgrad. A similar condition prevails in the government of Ekatrinoslav, where incendiarism is rife.

POLICE PROMISE TO PROTECT LODZ JEWS, AND CITY IS QUIET

LODZ, Russian Poland, June 30.—Fifteen thousand more troops have arrived here and the city is again quiet. In response to a deputation of Jews the chief of police to-day promised to protect them and their co-religionists.

AMERICAN JEWS GIVEN RESIDENCE RIGHTS IN RUSSIA

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—George L. Meyer, the American Ambassador to St. Petersburg, has informed the American consuls in Russia that permission has been granted to all American citizens of the Jewish faith to live anywhere in Russia.

It is reported that the same privilege will be granted to all foreign Jews.

70,000 TONS OF ROCK WILL BE BLOWN HIGH

10,000 Pounds of Dynamite to Be Used in Clearing Entrance for Battleships.

Special to the Boston American.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 30.—The last section of Henderson's Point, containing about 70,000 tons of rock, will be blown up with fifty tons of dynamite at high tide on July 22d.

It will mark the conclusion of one of the most difficult engineering feats ever accomplished and will open the way for large warships to the Portsmouth navy yard.

The work is being done by a Massachusetts contracting company at a contract price of $749,000.

At Work Three Years.

The company has been at work since August, 1902, and has taken away 500,000 tons of rock. There is just one big section left, which the contractors have planned to remove by the use of dynamite, one of the largest explosions ever attempted.

There have been drilled in the last remaining section of rock about 300 holes anywhere from fifty to eighty feet deep. These will be filled with the explosive and exploded by three circuits with a powerful electric battery many yards away.

Buildings to Be Razed.

Before July 22 the company will have removed all of its buildings in the vicinity. The nearest other building is the big naval hospital, and it is probable that the inmates will have to be taken to some other place. It is about 500 yards from the scene of the proposed explosion.

Old residents of Portsmouth express fear of the result. They have figured up that such an amount of dynamite exploded at once should be enough to wreck the city. Some of those who cannot be persuaded otherwise have decided that they will leave the city.

FRENCH GUNS AT CHERBOURG GREET SIGSBEE

American Fleet Which Will Transport Body of John Paul Jones Is in France.

CHERBOURG, France, June 30.—The fleet of Admiral Sigsbee, which will convey the remains of John Paul Jones to America, arrived here early to-day. Admiral Sigsbee telegraphed to the American consul when passing Cape Scilly that he would arrive to-day and a careful watch had been kept all night for his fleet. As the American vessels came into port the batteries on land saluted them and the vessels returned the salute.

Commander Roy C. Smith, the American naval attache, arrived here from Paris and conferred with Admiral Besson in regard to the reception to be given the American squadron. The arrangements for the ceremonies in connection with the removal of the body from Paris are in the hands of committees in the capital.

Escorted by "Jackies."

An American naval escort of 535 officers and men will arrive in Paris the morning of July 6, and will be met at the Invalides railroad station by a company of French troops and escorted to the barracks of the Military School, which the government has placed at the disposition of the American sailors and marines.

At 3:30 p. m. the ceremony of the delivery of the body to the American representatives will be held in the American church on the Avenue de l'Alma. The body will lie in state in the chancel of the church. Former Ambassador Porter, as custodian of the body, the recovery of which was due entirely to his efforts, will make a brief address previous to turning over the body to Francis B. Loomis, representing the American government. Later Mr. Loomis will commission Admiral Sigsbee to transport the body to America.

COUNCILS WILL TALK NEW RATE

Next in importance to the meeting of the entire council of the Royal Arcanum is that of the various subordinate councils to be held with Palladium Council in Everett to-night. This will be a formal convocation at which the question of the new rates will be fully discussed. It is at this meeting that some action will probably be taken to stimulate a new scale of rates which will be submitted later to the supreme council. It is probable that a large committee of seven, regents of the grand council of Massachusetts will be selected to study the entire question and mortality records of the supreme council. It will be its duty to draw up a scale of rates more equitable to the old and younger members of the fraternity.

Regent W. H. Cummings of Palladium council, Everett, who started the movement for this joint session of councils, may be at the head of this proposed committee.

MISS O'REILLY CHANGES FAITH TO BE MARRIED

Daughter of Irish Poet Leaves Catholic Church to Wed a Protestant.

UNITARIAN OFFICIATES

"To bend the mind to discipline; to break
The bonds of old conventions, and forget
The claims and barriers of class."
—From the poem of John Boyle O'Reilly at the unveiling of the Plymouth Monument, August 1, 1889.

No more touching romance has occurred in Boston in many years than that which has just resulted in the marriage of Miss Agnes Boyle O'Reilly, the brilliant daughter of the late Irish patriot and poet, John Boyle O'Reilly, to Ernest Hocking, a young professor of philosophy in Andover Academy.

In wedding the man of her choice the young woman had to forsake the Catholic church in which she had worshipped from childhood. This step she took after long thought and an earnest effort to induce a clergyman of her faith to perform the marriage ceremony.

So deeply did the young woman feel her religious duty that she importuned Archbishop John J. Williams in person to allow her to be married in the church. She says that the archbishop told her that if she would sign a paper to bring up in the Catholic faith any children that might be born of the union he would permit a priest to perform the ceremony. This she refused to do.

Inherits Father's Talent.

And so the young couple were married on Wednesday at the handsome home of the young woman on Walnut street, Brookline. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Samuel M. Crothers of the First Unitarian church of Cambridge. The wedding was very quiet, and it is said that none of the relatives of the bride was in attendance. The wedding day was the anniversary of her father's birth.

The bride is the third daughter of the poet. She is about twenty-six years old and highly cultured. She is especially interested in the study of philosophy, is very bright and vivacious and is possessed of the keen wit that characterized her father.

The former Miss O'Reilly met Mr. Hocking about a year ago at a musicale at the home of Dr. Richard Cabot in this city. The young man is the son of a physician in Chicago. He has studied abroad. He accepted the chair of philosophy at Andover, after having had several other good offers.

Family Opposed Her.

After the O'Reilly home in Brookline had been closed for the Summer months Miss Agnes made her home at Dr. Cabot's. There the young couple met often, and their friendship ripened into love.

The members of her family tried to dissuade her from marrying outside of her church. She went to two or three priests about it, but was referred to the Archbishop. The young woman could not be persuaded to relinquish her sweetheart. She said that she loved the man of her choice devotedly; that she was a student and a believer in the life work of her prospective husband, and that, if she could not be married by a priest of the Roman Catholic Church without being obliged to sign papers concerning the religion of children who might be born to her, she most assuredly would turn to the religion of her husband.

So the favorite daughter of the great Irishman was married. Gowned in a white mousseline dress, trimmed with old point lace and carrying a cluster of lilies of the valley, she was married standing beneath the exquisite oil painting of her father, which was the work of a noted artist, and presented to John Boyle O'Reilly by friends. The bride and groom were unattended and left Brookline soon after they had been pronounced man and wife, the ceremony having taken place at 9 o'clock in the forenoon.

Would Not Pledge Children.

Mrs. Andrew Robeson, a neighbor of the O'Reillys with whom Miss Agnes O'Reilly had been staying the last week preparing for her wedding, said to-day:

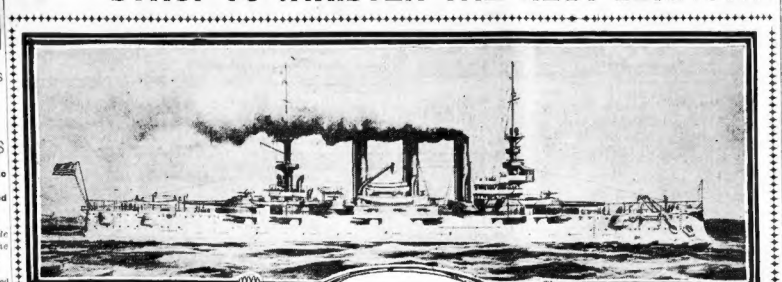
"Miss O'Reilly is an especially brilliant and cultured young woman. It is quite true that she has renounced the Roman Catholic faith to marry Prof. Hocking, because there was no other way out of it. The young woman tried to arrange matters so that she might become wedded by a priest of the Roman Catholic Church, but she could not bring herself to sign certain papers to bring up what children she might have in the faith of her father and mother and sisters. I know that she felt keenly the outcome of it, but she could not be happy in her frame of mind had she done anything else. She will be happy. Of that I am sure.

"It is the intention of Professor Hocking and his wife, after they have made a tour, to teach in the George Junior Republic during the Summer months, after which they will take up their residence in Andover. I have heard that the relatives of the bride were considerably nettled because the young woman was wed by a Protestant minister.

"Yes, the young woman was married on the birthday of her father. I don't know whether or not it was planned by her, the ceremony fell on that day, so I inquired of Dr. Cabot if he knew of that fact, and he replied that he did not; so in all probability the fact that her wedding day was the anniversary of the birth of her distinguished father had escaped the notice of the young woman.

"The beautiful home of the O'Reillys, which occupies one of the most picturesque sites in Brookline, has been sold and one of the unmarried daughters will live with her aunt while the other is abroad.

WILL GOV. BELL'S DAUGHTER USE MAPLE SYRUP TO CHRISTEN THE NEW VERMONT?



Miss JENNIE BELL.

NEW BATTLESHIP AND HER SPONSOR.

She Is Expected to Use Champagne, but Some Suggest the Staple Green Mountain Product.

Miss Jennie Bell, the daughter of the Governor of Vermont, who has been brought conspicuously before the people of New England recently through the Mary Rogers case, has been selected to break the bottle of champagne with which the battleship Vermont is to be christened upon the launching at Quincy, Mass., on August 31.

The Governor and his entire staff will attend the launching of the vessel to be named after the Green Mountain State, as well as many other prominent citizens from there. It is declared that champagne will be used in the christening, although it has been suggested that maple syrup, of which the State is a great producer, and in which the Governor is an expert, might be more appropriate.

The lasses would probably prove too sticky and, taking all things into consideration, the flat water will probably be sacrificed in that manner.

Designed as a Flagship.

The vessel is designed as a flagship and it will be one of the finest warships afloat. The arrangement of quarters provides ample accommodations for the following complement: A flag officer, a chief of staff, nineteen wardroom officers, ten junior officers, ten warrant officers, and not less than 761 men, including sixty marines.

There is a lower bridge both forward and aft, and a flying bridge forward, according to the latest practice. On the flying bridge is fitted a screen of bullet proof for the protection of the men at the wheel, and there is also a bronze chart house forward.

There are steel masts forward and aft, the foremost having an upper and lower top, the main mast a lower top only. Masts are arranged for wireless telegraphy. There is one signal yard on each mast and also a searchlight platform forward and aft, with a crow's nest on the foremast.

Following is the armament of the boat: Main battery: Four 12-inch breech-loading rifles; eight 8-inch breech-loading rifles; twelve 7-inch breech-loading rifles. Secondary battery: twenty 3-inch, 12-pounder, rapid-fire guns; twelve 3-pounder and semi-automatic guns; six 1-pounder automatic guns; two 1-pounder semi-automatic guns; two 3-inch field pieces; two machine guns, caliber .30; six automatic guns, caliber .30.

Complete Armor Belt.

The hull is protected at the water line by a complete belt of armor 9 feet 3 inches wide, having a maximum thickness of 11 inches for about 200 feet amidships. Forward and aft of this the maximum thickness is 5 inches within the limits of magazines, from which points the thickness is gradually decreased to 4 inches at the stem and stern.

The magazine and shell rooms are so arranged that about one-half the supply of ammunition will be carried at each end of the ship. The total weight of the equipment outfit, complete, will be about 355 tons.

A Patriotic Suggestion.

Our battleships and merchantmen
That sail the stormy main
We should not christen any more
With foreign-made champagne,
But leave the amber fizz to foam
At dinners long and late,
And name our ships with some distilled
Production of each State.

The craft for Louisiana trade,
Or built within her bays,
With New Orleans molasses should
Be started down the ways.
For prohibition Maine a cup
Of water clear will do,
And maple-syrup for Vermont
Would be the proper brew.

The Middle West may launch
Her ships
With Kansas kerosene,
Topaz flood may do the trick
Where lartied beer is queen.
The moonshine dew of Tennessee
Good luck will surely bring,
While Texas with her herds will find
That bouillon is the thing.

Virginia, with a demijohn
Of cider new and sweet,
Can send another cruiser off
To join our navy fleet.
And lo! New York, the Empire State,
The land of power and money,
Can christen hers from golden flasks
Of mingled milk and honey.
—Minna Irving, in Leslie's Weekly.

SEEK WOMEN IN MAN'S DEATH AT "OLD MILL"

Police Probe Mystery in Sudden End of Unknown at Nantasket.

BODY IN WATER WHEEL

The mysterious death of an unknown man while making the trip through the "Old Mill" at Nantasket Beach last night is being investigated by the police and medical examiner to-day.

Because of the fact that the medical examiner is certain that the man was still conscious before he struck the water and blood drops were found on the rear seat where he sat, a satisfactory explanation of the cause of his death has not yet been found. The suggestion has been made that he may have been seized with a fit and fallen out.

The police would like to find two women who were in the small boat at the time and who disappeared immediately after the accident was discovered. The women said that they did not know the man and saw nothing of the accident. They said that they heard a splash in the water, but were of the opinion that it was caused by the wheel in the mill. The identity of the dead man has not yet been established.

May Be Brockton Man.

In the man's pocket were several souvenir postal cards, a $6.40 railroad rebate check from Brockton to Braintree, a letter from the Simpson Employment Agency of No. 1 Bowdoin street, Boston, and on the envelope of the letter were the initials "J. H. L."

On one of the postal cards was written the address of Mrs. Mary Percy, No. 66 Field street, Brockton. It is thought that the man is Arthur Percy of that address, although the bat initials do not bear it out.

Chief of Police Benjamin of the Nantasket police and Medical Examiner Spooner say that it would be impossible for one to drown in the canal, as there are but eighteen inches of water. The man must have been struck, they say, or have fallen into the water from the effect of a fit.

The first that Manager Sullivan of the "Old Mill" knew that a man was dead in his amusement place was upon being told by persons in a boat who followed the one the unknown man was riding in. His body was seen floating ahead of their boat. The wheel which propels the boats along the canal stopped and the body was found lodged between the paddles. It was removed to Browning's undertaking establishment in Hingham, where Medical Examiner Spooner viewed it.

Occupied Rear Seat.

When the man entered the boat, it is said, he was alone, and occupied the rear seat. On the seat in front of him were two women. The police think it strange that the three men should have taken the same boat if the man and women were unacquainted.

There were several bruises on the body when found, so that it is difficult for the police to decide whether the man was struck a blow or sustained the marks by coming in contact with the old wheel.

The man was about forty-five years old, five feet nine or ten inches tall, weighed about 165 pounds, and had brown hair and was seen in life to have a mustache. His hands were soft, and he did not have the appearance of a mechanic.

At the Simpson Employment Agency at No. 1 Bowdoin street, the address found in the dead man's pocket, no one could remember having seen the man at the agency, from a description furnished by a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter.

POLICE CALL MARY CHILD THIEF QUEEN

Accuse Hayes Girl of Worcester, Age 13, of Many Bold Thefts.

LOCKED UP, LACKING BAIL

WORCESTER, June 30.—Believed to have been the person who has been so cleverly relieving patrons of the department stores of their pocket books, Mary Hayes, thirteen years old and very demure, who was arrested in Boston, was held in the Police Court to-day by Judge Utley in $200 bail for trial in the juvenile session on Monday.

Wearing a large picture hat and a new white dress, the little girl was the central figure in the courtroom. She was apparently unconcerned about the grave charges that have been brought against her. In striking contrast to her mother, who sat sobbing a short distance from the prisoners' cage. No effort was made to furnish the $200 bonds required, and the girl was locked up.

The police have been looking for someone, now believed to be Mary, for weeks. Theft after theft has been reported from the stores, and watch as they might the detectives could get no clue to the perpetrator of the crimes.

While the thief gave special attention apparently to the pocketbooks of women shoppers—extracting them deftly from the handbags of the women—yet it was found that many other things were taken.

Plunder of Many Kinds.

It is charged that $85 was stolen from the till of a furniture dealer and the police will try to trace that to the girl. A photograph, a baby carriage, a new bicycle, pillow cases and dress goods have been missing, and the police say that they have found that Mary got away with them all.

The case is one of the most peculiar that ever came before the police of this city. They could not believe that they had been fooled so long by a girl of thirteen, but now they are satisfied that it is true.

The child is the stepdaughter of James Talbot of No. 30 Seymour street. A short time ago she said she had secured a position with a rich woman who lives on Lancaster street, to act as a housemaid. Her mother gladly gave her permission to go to work, and Mary took the place. The woman discharged her after two days service, however.

Had Many Presents.

Mary did not tell of her discharge. Instead she kept bringing home "presents" to the family from the wealthy woman, whom she said gave them to her. The photograph was a birthday present, the baby carriage was for the baby, and from a "neighbor whose baby had died."

Mrs. Talbot is a woman of unquestioned honesty. She says she believes Mary, because they were out of place in her home, and could not think otherwise. Suddenly, however, that her daughter was a thief. Meanwhile the mother was caring for a little girl, who wore a red tam o'shanter hat when she came to the Talbot home many. Mary got wind of their search in some way and changed the hat for a veil.

The most audacious theft charged to the little girl is that of $85 from the Bilfinger street furniture man. The man was counting his money when he telephone rang. The child came into the store at the same moment. When the proprietor came back to his money he found that $85 had been extracted.

The girl was arrested at the home of her uncle, James Breen, of No. 15 Knox street, South End, Boston.

MRS. EDDY TO BE SUCCEEDED BY HER CULT

Only That, Says Spokesman for Christian Scientists' Leader.

Christian Scientists have for a long time discussed the possible successor of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy as head of that cult, wondering which of the more prominent Christian Scientists would be honored. Now comes the authoritative statement from Alfred Farlow, generally regarded as the mouthpiece for Mrs. Eddy, that she will have no successor.

In an open letter to Christian Scientists he says:

"Since Mrs. Eddy is so well preserved, the question of successorship seems a very remote subject, but it seems proper to state that Mrs. Eddy will never be succeeded by a man or a woman, but by the Science which she has taught.

"In speaking of her personal fortune, recently estimated at $1,200,000, Mr. Farlow says:

"I only wish this were true, since no benefactor in the history of the world has given more valuable labor than Mrs. Eddy for the compensation received.

"A large number of the students which Mrs. Eddy taught had nothing to pay and were accepted free of charge. Another large percentage were in limited circumstances and received liberal discounts, while another large percentage came in pairs, husband and wife paying only one tuition.

"While some newspapers have speculated concerning her fortune, it is well known to those who are nearest to her that she has already given away a very large portion of it to her church and to charities. Her bookkeeper informs me that these have sometimes reached more than $50,000 per year. Mrs. Eddy seems not to care for money except for the good which she can do with it."

YOUNG WILL APPEAL TO U. S. FOR JUSTICE

Threatening to make an international affair of his treatment by the Nova Scotia authorities in connection with the prosecution of May Hope Young on the charge of murdering her child at Digby, Elmer E. Young arrived in Boston on the steamer Prince George from Yarmouth to-day. He berated the provincial authorities for their treatment of him and declared that he would "fight the case to a finish," and that he would soon go back and "teach them a lesson."

"I'm a ruined man, and all on account of this farce of protection which is supposed to be given to an American citizen," he exclaimed. "Yes, I returned empty-handed, without the baby Elma or Miss Hattie Harbird, but someone will suffer for this affair. I am going to make it an international affair before I have finished. I am going to appeal to the authorities at Washington to see if there is no protection for an American citizen in Nova Scotia."

Young said that he intends soon to open his office at No. 235 Washington street again.

"I am going back there again. I am not quitter. But next time I shall go prepared. I was shoved into a cell at 7:30 at night, and for twelve hours all I got to eat was three slices of bread and a small cup of tea. So that the ways American citizens should be treated who has not committed a crime, but is simply held as a witness? When I sent for the American consul he said that he could not come to see me."

VICTIM OF LYNCHING IS FOUND ALIVE

One of the Eight Supposed to Have Been Shot by Georgia Mob Survives.

WHOLE TOWN AROUSED

Special to the Boston American.

WATKINSVILLE, Ga., June 30.—Joe Patterson, one of the seven negroes taken from the jail with Lon Aycock, a white man, tied to posts at the outskirts of the town and shot by a posse, has been found to be alive.

Each of the other seven was riddled with bullets and fell where he stood. Patterson was supposed to be dead when he was cut down, but he revived while being carried away to a grave and was found to be only unconscious. He was slightly hurt, while the post to which he was bound was fairly shot to pieces. He had the presence of mind to drop at the first volley, and the mob believed him dead when it left.

Aroused Over Slaughter.

The town is aroused over the slaughter, especially because there was only slight evidence against Aycock, and many believe he was innocent of the offence with which he was charged, which was not serious.

The prisoners were secured only after the mob had stormed the jail, dragged out before it Town Marshal L. H. Aiken.

Jailer Crow, at the point of a gun, was forced to give up the keys to the cells, the besiegers threatening to dynamite the prison if he refused.

Four of the prisoners were charged with being implicated in the murder of Holbrook and his wife, and one is held for an attempted assault. The others were in jail on misdemeanor charges.

Mob Is Masked.

The mob came quietly into town a little before 2 o'clock this morning. There were about fifty to seventy-five masked men in the crowd. They went at once to the house of Marshal Aiken and quietly called him to the door. The moment he showed his head he was seized by the neck and told he must deliver the jail key. He refused and they put pistols in his face and overpowered him, he being "a rather small man."

On their way to the jail they were met by A. W. Ashford, a prominent citizen of the town, who begged the mob to desist and let the law take its course, especially pleading for Aycock on the ground that the evidence had not been secured to warrant his conviction. He also begged the mob not to lynch those not charged with capital crimes.

The mob told him he might as well go back home and go to bed.

Cover Jailer With Pistols.

The jail was then opened by the town marshal under the cover of pistols and inside the jail the mob held up Jailer Crow and demanded the keys to the cells. He refused, but he was covered with guns and made to give them up. If it would have made no difference, however, if the jailer had failed to give them up. They would have been shot in their cells.

Jailer Crow begged hard for Aycock on the same ground that Ashford did, and also for the two negroes who were not charged with capital crime.

They got every prisoner in the jail except Ed Thrasher, a negro charged with gambling, who was not mulcted.

Aycock protested his innocence. He said they were killing an innocent man.

Volley of Bullets.

At a command by the leader, the mob stepped back a few paces, took deliberate aim and fired a volley from rifles, shotguns and pistols into the line of prisoners. Every man fell.

Believing its work had been complete, the mob quickly dispersed. Patterson's escape from death was by a miracle, for the fence post to which he had been bound was riddled with bullets.

The rattle of the volley aroused the town. Scores of citizens sprang from their beds in alarm. The mob, however, had dispersed.

IMMIGRATION HAS IMPROVED

Colonel Billings, Immigration Commissioner, believes that a better class of people are coming to this port from Europe at present than during the last few years. It is believed that the new steamship rates, recently advanced, have a tendency to put a check on the rush of the less desirable class of immigrants.

Colonel Billings pointed out the thousand immigrants who arrived on the Cunarder Ivernia. "It's the best crowd that has landed here in a long time," he declared. "Out of the thousand we had to detain only fifty-six, and fifty-four of these will be released on the arrival of relatives. Only the two will have to be deported on account of trachoma, a disease of the eye."

ROB POPULAR LYNN TEACHER

10 DISCHARGED; UNION FOLLOWS

Special to the Boston American.

CLAREMONT, N. H., June 30.—Because ten members of the union were discharged and the officials refused their reinstatement, forty-eight employes of the Sullivan Machinery Company left their work to-day and were subsequently locked out. They include both moulders and coremakers, members of Local No. 64, I. M. P.

President Charles S. Blakeley of the union said to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter:

"The men are locked out, as the company does not want union men.

Mr. Donnelly said: "We admit the privilege of any firm to hire and discharge whom they please as long as they do not discriminate against us as an organization. All we want is to have the discharged men reinstated."

Mr. Copeland, president of the company, stated: "We had occasion to turn off ten men Thursday to reduce the output, and ten were allowed to go. There is no trouble on the company's part."

SAYS SHE IS NOT INSANE

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Vice-Chancellor Stevens at Newark yesterday heard testimony in the action brought by Ferdinand H. Bergan of Jersey City to have his sister, Mrs. Louise B. O'Connor, released from the insane asylum. She is the widow of James Owen O'Connor and is reputed to be worth $100,000.

Mrs. O'Connor was committed to the asylum last June on complaint of her daughter, Mrs. John J. Gaynor, of Newark, who has since died.

Mrs. O'Connor testified in her own behalf that she was not insane. She said she was preparing to go to Europe and went to Hoboken on the representation that her daughter was to be operated upon in a Newark Hospital. When she got to the institution she found it was an asylum and she was detained.

BRANDED WORD MAYOR FORCES 'FAKIR' ON ARM 'L' TO OBEY LAW

NEW YORK, June 30.—Isaac Chaves, an immigrant, was taken to Governor's Hospital in a serious condition. To see if he was shamming, Dr. Dubois Hunt, a visiting interne, heated an iron while he examined that he was, he traced the word "Fakir" with the sizzling iron on the man's arm.

As soon as he was discharged, Chaves is carried to the immigration authorities and told his story. Hunt was summarily dismissed.

Major Dwyer, of Medford, found employes of the Elevated opening Main street without a permit, and promptly ordered the work to cease.

The foreman in charge of the gang refused to comply with the order of His Honor, and it was not until Chief of Police Holmes was about to call out his entire force in order to cause a suspension of operations that the workmen were laid off.

TAFT'S PARTY TO LEAVE FOR ORIENT TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The congressional party, organized several months ago by Secretary of War Taft, of which Miss Roosevelt is to be a member, is ready to start for the Philippines this evening. They will go to San Francisco by rail, arriving at the Golden Gate on July 4. After four days of banqueting and sight-seeing the party will board the Pacific Mail steamer, Manchuria.

At Honolulu the party will be entertained by a local committee. Yokohama will be reached July 26, and the party will travel by special train to Tokio, where the Mikado will receive them. Banquets and sight-seeing tours lasting three days will follow. Trips will be made to Kobe and Nagaski.

On August 2, the travelers will head for Manila, where they will be formally received by Governor and Mrs. Wright at a public reception. On August 8 they will be dined by the Chamber of Commerce, and the next day attend a reception given by Major-General Corbin at the Army and Navy Club.

Trip Totals 21,867 Miles.

August 10 there will be a dinner by Archbishop Harty, and on August 11 a banquet tendered by prominent Filipinos. After a ball, tendered by the city committee, the party will tour the islands of the archipelago, leaving from one to two days on each. August 30 they sail for Hong Kong by the Pacific Mail steamer Korea.

On the return trip stops will be made at Shanghai, Nagasaki, Kobe, Yokohama and Honolulu. The party is scheduled to reach San Francisco October 4. The trip outward will measure 10,666 miles, the return 11,201, the total 21,867 miles.

Members of Party.

Among the members of the party are Secretary of War William H. Taft, Senator and Mrs. Nathan B. Scott, of Wheeling, W. Va.; Congressman Bourke Cockran, of New York; Congressman and Mrs. C. H. Grosvenor, of Athens, O.; Congressman Nicholas Longworth, of Cincinnati; Miss Alice Roosevelt, Miss Mabel Boardman, Miss Amy Macmillan and Miss Helen Patten, of Washington; Representative Fish, Jr., of New York; Arthur H. Woods, of Boston, and Burr McIntosh, of New York.

$10,000 FIRE IN BRIGHTON

About $10,000 damage was caused by a fire in buildings occupied by the Boston Tripe Company on the grounds of the packing plant at Brighton. A dwelling-house at No. 259 North Beacon street was slightly damaged.

LET NO GUILTY EQUITABLE MAN ESCAPE

—WILLIAM WHITMAN

New Boston Director Insists That Every Criminal, Rich or Poor, Be Punished.

DIST.-ATTORNEY'S WORK

I will say that if criminal proceedings have been resorted to by officials, the District-Attorney should prosecute them. It makes no difference to me whether it be a millionaire or an office clerk. If he is guilty he should get his just deserts and be scattered to a term in prison.

This is the declaration of William Whitman, one of the new directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, who was selected to represent the policyholders of New England. He is the chairman of the Equitable Protective Association in this city. Speaking to a reporter of the BOSTON AMERICAN, Mr. Whitman said that he would accept the position, and that he would do all in his power for the good of the New England policyholders.

"I shall accept the position of director of the Equitable Society," said Mr. Whitman, "I did not seek the position and did not dream that I would be a director when I accepted the chairmanship of the New England committee. The trustees wrote to the New England committee and requested that we should name some New England man to fill the position of director.

"The members of the New England committee insisted that I should allow my name sent to as I am one of the heaviest policyholders in the society. I did not care for the position as I have large business interests in other companies.

"Before I was questioned as a director the committee stated that whoever should accept would be under no obligations to any one. That is my position. I shall insist on a thorough investigation. What I want is absolute justice for the policyholders, and I shall fight for that end."

"Do you believe there has been anything criminally wrong upon the part of the officials of the Equitable?" asked the reporter.

"I do not want to condemn any one," replied Director Whitman. "If there has been any criminal proceedings the District Attorney will find it out. He is the man who will say whether the matter will be taken into the courts. I will say, however, that if criminal proceedings have been resorted to by officials, the District Attorney should prosecute them. It makes no difference to me whether it be a millionaire or an office clerk. If he is guilty he should get his just deserts and be sentenced to a term in prison. The guilty should be punished regardless of their financial or social standing.

"My work will be to act with the board and see that no such tragic be the affairs of the Equitable is repeated. The money of policyholders in the Equitable will in the future be guarded as safely as possible.

HILDEBRAND TAKEN DOWN

NEW YORK, June 30.—Jockey Hildebrand, the betting public's favorite jockey, will ride no more at the Sheepshead Bay meeting.

Mere Cwoldy set him down yesterday for persistently wheeling his horse around at the barrier in the Spendthrift Stakes, when the start was opposite to the stand. This will deprive the Whitney stable of his services in the Realization and other big races.

WORMS

"I had for years suffered from what medical men called Pinworms and Seat Worms. Internal remedies failed to relieve me. Doctors told me I was to be operated to find that I had 'em'—re-a wiggling, squirming mass of worms. I bought a box of Cascarets which I showed him thirty feet, and in another day the monsters were alone in the same length of a paper worm that had been ramping my vitality for years. Cascarets did the work. Cascarets are the best." Chas. Blackstock, 1219 Divinity Place, West Philadelphia, Pa.

MOTHER ASKS AMERICAN TO FIND HER 16-YEAR OLD GIRL

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS MISSING GIRL?

Stella Corbett Missing and Police of Boston and Malden Are Seeking Her.

"Missing from home, Stella N. Corbett, aged sixteen years, height about five feet four inches, complexion fair, eyes blue, hair light; has trick of hanging her head down; wore blue suit, light sack coat and big red hat."

This tells the story of a mother's broken heart at 8A Freshingham avenue, Charlestown, and the all of the police of Boston, Charlestown and Malden has been invoked to find the missing girl and restore her to her family.

Stella is a beautiful girl, well reared and with few cares. She left her home last Monday, taking along a few things, all unknown to her parent. Complaint was made next day to Police Station 15, and later to police headquarters in Boston, asking that the department make every effort toward recovering the child.

Mrs. Corbett said: "My girl had kept company with a Malden fellow named William A. Hertig. He lives on Suffolk street, I think. I have caused inquiries to be made at his home, but up to now I have not located him. If he should be found he might be able to throw some light on the whereabouts of my girl. He knew where she was in the habit of going in Boston better, I think, than any other person."

Mrs. Corbett has asked the AMERICAN to help to find her daughter.

MAY INDICT 25 BIG BEEF TRUST CHIEFS

Former Employe Lays Bare the Secrets of $100,000,000 Combine.

CHICAGO, June 30.—W. D. Miles, formerly confidential man of Armour & Co. at Kansas City, and a protege of the late P. D. Armour, has given the Federal grand jury such information about the Beef Trust that that body, will, it is said, be able to indict at least twenty-five Beef Trust heads and employes.

W. D. Miles, for fifteen years an employe of the trust, after leaving the company in a fit of rancour, related the details of the meetings. He told what men were there and where they met. His condition was that J. Ogden Armour should be held blameless in the matter.

This information came to light when Miles appeared before the grand jury for the second time, after which he held a long conference with District Attorney Morrison.

To-day the jury will consider the evidence with a view to voting the indictments which may be returned to-morrow. Both Miles and his father had been favorites with Philip Armour, and the son was promoted from place to place, until he was entrusted with many of the most valuable secrets of the company. His specialty was the export trade.

A year and a half ago he left the concern. On the occasion of his first appearance on the witness stand, Miles told of the existence of a new trust, a combine, which is reported to have behind it $100,000,000. This involves, it is said, all beef packing companies.

MABEL PAGE'S FATHER SICK

AUBURNDALE, June 30.—Edward A. Page, father of the murdered Mabel Page, lies seriously ill at his residence, and, although he is not in imminent danger of death, his condition is serious enough to warrant considerable anxiety among his friends.

FALL RIVER LAD SHOOTS HIS COUSIN

FALL RIVER, June 30.—Manuel Perry, twenty years old, shot his cousin, Joseph Rego, fifty, while trying a revolver in Perry's yard. Perry was cleaning the weapon in preparation for the celebration of the Fourth. He was firing at the door of a shed, not knowing anyone was in the building. The bullet passed through the door and struck Rego, who will recover.

MARLBORO BOY SHOOTS BROTHER

MARLBORO, June 30.—While hunting woodchucks with a 32-calibre rifle, Fred Brigham, fourteen year old son of Representative William H. Brigham, accidentally shot his brother Alfred, twelve. In the breast. Urssee was carrying the rifle and in some manner it went off, the bullet striking Alfred, who was behind Urssee.

CHARGES AGAINST OFFICER

Charges which the selectmen have not made public have been preferred by several prominent Arlington citizens against Patrolman Fred E. Smith of that town. A hearing will take place to-morrow night, at which it is expected the nature of the charges will be announced.

183,159 VOTERS IN BOSTON.

The complete number of polls in Boston, according to the completed lists of the assessors for May 1, is 183,159. This is 11,288 less than the number returned by the police in their listing for the same date.

ALL SICK WOMEN

SHOULD READ MRS. FOX'S LETTER

In All Parts of the United States Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Effected Similar Cures.

Many wonderful cures of female ills are continually coming to light which have been brought about by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and through the advice of Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., which is given to sick women absolutely free of charge.

Mrs. Pinkham has for many years made a study of the ills of her sex; she has consulted with and advised thousands of suffering women, who to-day owe not only their health but even life to her helpful advice.

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox, of 7 Chestnut Street, Bradford, Pa., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered for a long time with womb trouble, and finally was told by my physician that I had a tumor on the womb. I did not want to submit to an operation, so wrote you for advice. I received your letter and did as you told me, and to-day I am completely cured. My doctor says the tumor has disappeared, and I am once more a well woman. I believe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world for women."

The testimonials which we are constantly publishing from grateful women establish beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She asks nothing in return for her advice. It is absolutely free, and to thousands of women has proved to be more precious than gold.

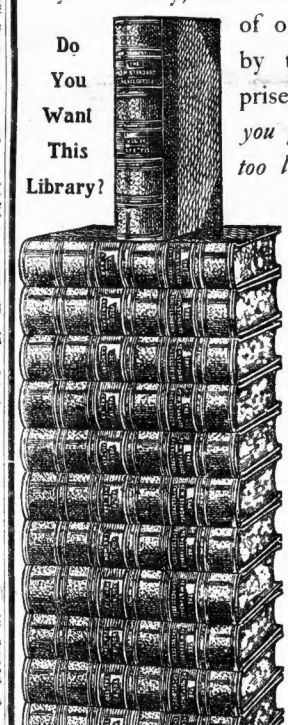
The American's Last Offer

Our Co-operative Club Will Close at Midnight

At midnight to-night our great enterprise will come to an end. This is the last notice that will appear. Are YOU on the list? Have you taken advantage of the opportunity? Remember, it is now a matter of hours. Can you afford, in justice to your family, yourself, your prospects, the success and happiness of your children, to refuse this offer?

If you need an Encyclopedia, either for yourself or your family, don't delay another minute. Thousands of our readers have already profited by this Great Co-operative Enterprise. You can do the same. Will you grasp the opportunity before it is too late?

Do You Want This Library?



THE NEW STANDARD ENCYCLOPEDIA
12 Massive Volumes
8,500 Pages
55,000 Articles
900,000 Topics
3,000 Illustrations
150 Maps

What It Means to YOU.

The object of this enterprise is to place an Encyclopedia in the homes of all earnest men and women who desire to improve their condition. A good Encyclopedia is a whole library in itself. It gives in condensed and convenient form the collected wisdom of all time. Here you will find information on every subject—history, science, geography, politics, religion, commerce, trades, philosophy, etc.—written in words that all can understand. For the children, it will answer every question that pops into their inquiring minds; for older people, it will be a complete university, from which they can with a little application get the equivalent of a college education.

Heretofore the best Encyclopedias have been put on the market at abnormally high figures, ranging from $80 to $120—prices which only the very rich could afford to pay. In order to overcome this obstacle arrangements were made with the publishers of the New Standard Encyclopedia (12 volumes) for several thousand complete sets, the last of which we are now distributing among our readers and friends.

The American's object in entering upon this great enterprise is purely educational—to show what a great saving can be effected by co-operation. Those who join this Club receive their sets direct from the binders—no middleman makes a profit.

The New Standard Encyclopedia

Newest and Best Reference Library on the Market.

After looking over the field carefully for an encyclopedia that would measure up to all requirements, the NEW STANDARD was selected because, in the judgment of many eminent critics and scholars, it is the best and most practical reference work that has yet been published. It is not one of those cheap, trashy affairs, rehashed from foreign sources, but a First-Class American Encyclopedia, written in a simple, clear and readable style.

This is the last coupon good for a membership in the American Club. It is dated June 30 and will be honored if received within a reasonable time after this date.

FREE

If you have no Encyclopedia at all, or one that is old and unsatisfactory, we will on receipt of the attached coupon, send you full particulars of this great Co-operative Club, together with a beautiful book of specimen pages from the Encyclopedia, containing full page duogravure portraits of the Mikado of Japan and the Emperor of Russia, double page map of Japan and Corea and the new Republic of Panama, many beautiful colored plates, sample pages, showing the text, etc. Only those who detach and mail this coupon will receive the book, as this club closes to-night at midnight.

This offer is for responsible men and women only. NO CHILDREN NEED APPLY.

BOSTON AMERICAN

DISEASE MADE WOMAN SUICIDE

The delay of an operation extremely important to her health and family troubles led to the suicide of Phelps Preston to Phelps, the Boston woman who was found dead with a bullet in her brain in the woods near the Hagar house at Weston.

Miss Della Phelps, sister of the dead woman, who lives at the Adams House, is guardian over the dead woman's effects. When surgeons a short time ago declared a delicate operation was necessary to restore Miss Florence Phelps to health, her sister objected, claiming that she was guardian over the person of her sister as well as over her property.

Miss Florence Phelps thought the operation was to have been performed June 11, Drs. Gurney and Bennet of Boston and Dr. Frederick Hyde of Weston had consulted over her condition, and when they met June 11, to perform the operation they met with decided opposition from Miss Della Phelps.

As there is a suit now in the courts against Miss Della Phelps, brought by benefici s of her father's will, who seek to have Miss Phelps removed as administratrix of her father's estate, the surgeons decided to await its decision, as it would affect her guardianship over her sister.

Meanwhile Miss Florence Phelps was suffering great pain, and unable to endure the suffering of body and mind any longer, she ended her misery by shooting herself in the head.

THOUGHT SAM WAS SKIPPING

Sam Kee has run a laundry for years at No. 24 West Dedham street. Business fell off, though, and he decided to move to Roxbury. He planned to transfer his goods and chattels yesterday, but when the express wagon arrived people became suspicious, and thought the Chinaman was going to skip with the laundry of his customers.

In a few minutes Kee's shop was besieged with angry customers. Kee tried to explain that they could get their washing at his new store in Roxbury. But that didn't satisfy the excited crowd.

A patrol wagon was summoned and the street to investigate the trouble. Kee said he wasn't going to steal the laundry, so the policemen told the angry customers where they could get their washing.

The crowd departed and Kee went on with the moving.

SHOT CONDUCTOR WHO PUT HIM OFF CAR

BARRE, Vt., June 30.—Erico Mantiana, an Italian, shot William Perkins, conductor on the Barre & Montpelier Street Railroad, in the back because Perkins put him off a car for non-payment of fare. The fatal shot struck Perkins at Perkins, only one of which took effect.

BIG RECEPTION TO M'NAMEES

Ex-Mayor John H. McNamee and wife of Cambridge were given a big reception by about 500 friends at their home on Mount Vernon street, Cambridge. The enthusiastic gathering presented the couple with a handsome mahogany hall clock, and made speeches in which the former Mayor was eulogized to the skies.

The occasion was the return of the couple from a sojourn in California. John E. Hannigan was master of ceremonies, and assisted in the presentation. Mrs. Alderman Michael F. Flynn, John Buckley and Peter Mullen, in receiving the guests. Rev. John J. Ryan made the presentation speech, in which he praised the administration of McNamee as Mayor and proclaimed him an honest man.

CHURCH GARDEN PARTY.

A big garden party is to be held to-morrow afternoon and evening in the residence of Our Lady in Newton, in connection with St. Peter's Church at Concord avenue and Buckingham street, Cambridge. Father P. J. Supple has charge of arrangements, and members of the parish anticipate an enjoyable affair.

MEDALS FOR CHILDREN.

A cantata and operetta were given by pupils of the parochial school of the Church of Our Lady in Newton, at the conclusion of which medal medals won by Francis A. Thomas and Miss Mary Cunningham were presented by Father Michael Dolan. About 150 pupils were engaged.

WIFE FEARED FOR HER LIFE

George L. Banks is seeking a divorce from his wife on the ground of alleged desertion. Miss Alice G. Morton, sister of Mrs. Banks, testified against her brother-in-law and said:

"I saw him draw the shades on the parlor windows so that she could not look out. She was afraid of her life of him."

She also said that her sister was no slack about the housework. "Everything looked as neat as a pin when she was sick."

The couple were married in East Boston by Justice Bowditch, on June 2, 1898, and separated June 2, 1900. They lived together for a year after they separated. He later went to lodge at the home of Mrs. Emma Randall, 37 Bowdoin street. He denied that he took an especial liking to Mrs. Randall or that he ever introduced her as his wife or that she was.

BOY OF FIVE TIED TO CAR AND DRAGGED

NEW YORK, June 30.—Malicious looting ended one end of a rope around five-year-old John Brazzo of No. 2 Tompkins avenue, Brooklyn, and the other end to a trolley car, which was at a standstill at Hopkins street.

When the car started Brazzo was dragged under the wheels. He was taken to the conductor noticed him. The child was fatally injured and was removed to the Williamsburg Hospital. His tormentor escaped.

Umpires—Kelly and McCarthy.

A more perfect day for a ball game than to-day could not be. For this reason it is expected that there will be a large crowd on hand to cheer the Champs on to victory in their second battle at the Huntington avenue grounds.

It's a case of keeping the pace at the top level for the Champs meeting with these Senators, and in the second game this afternoon they will have to step famous to put the champs on.

The boys from Teddy Roosevelt's town have a bad way of coming strong when they are a bit behind and make things uncertain going to the finish.

It's good judgment for the Champs to pocket the first one of the series as the Senators promise to make a lot of trouble before they chase away.

The visitors are not nosing out any easy dogs on the platter as lay work the limit when the word is given that the game is on.

It's the kind of stuff for fans like and appreciate and they know the best in the Champs will be brought out when they are pushed to put on the steam.

There are no medals on the Senators for being heavy hitters so to find reasons the Champs ought to hold them in check and squeeze out ahead. So the Champs themselves have yet to ok calomine for strikework and have nothing on the Senators in that direction.

It is peculiar in the games between the two teams that the scores of the winning side has never been higher than four and in no series have the runs been larger.

Stahl may send Jacobson to the rubber to-day. He has won three and lost one to the Champs. If Wolfe gets the chance he should be ready for the fifth team.

Cy Young ought to down the opposition, as the old fellow is pitching something grand.

NOTES OF THE GAME.
The Senators die hard.

They carried off all the pretty stunts.

* * *

Cassidy made an electrifying backhand catch of Parent's drive, shoulder high.

* * *

Jones went to the centre field bleachers to get a ball. Old-timers said the catch could not be duplicated.

* * *

There were distinguished visitors in the grandstand. Congressman William Alden Smith and Fred Postal. They were with the Michigan Press Association and guests of Carl Green.

* * *

There was a bad mixup on a fly ball back of second. It belonged to Ferris, but, somehow, Selbach got over from right and was the only one to make a move to get it.

* * *

Mullen's triple, followed by Cassidy's double in the last inning, made a little score.

* * *

Burkett again got the longest hit. He seems to have the big pole direction down to a science.

* * *

Criger got a lucky two-bagger. He pushed away from a ball and it struck the bat, going back of first place, and it could not have been by a safer point.

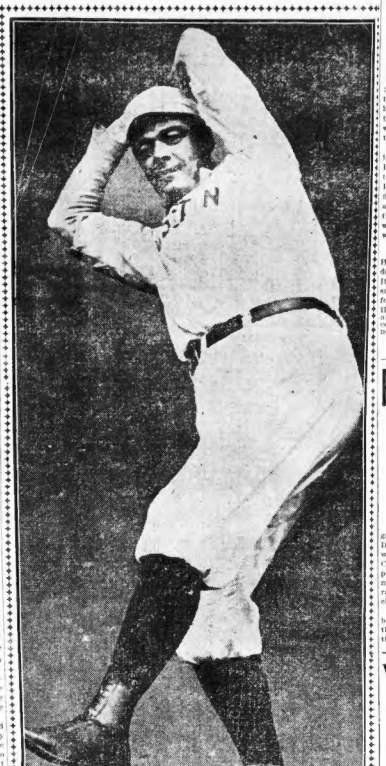
* * *

Someone was at fault when Tannehill threw to third base on a bunt hit when two runners on first and second. He did not make an attempt to touch the runner. The play certainly didn't agree with the fans.

* * *

Jake Stahl fanned three times. He took it good naturedly, and will probably make up for it before the series is over.

BILL DINNEEN, OF CHAMPS.



This photograph of Bill Dinneen, the crack pitcher of the Champs, was taken by a BOSTON AMERICAN camera at the Huntington avenue grounds yesterday afternoon as the big fellow was limbering his salary wing up before the game. Dinneen has pitched in hard luck so far this season, but is sure to strike his true gait before many days have passed.

WHAT FUTURE FOR THE BIG RACE?

BY A. H. C. MITCHELL.

Of course, the tremendously fine race the Harvard Varsity rowed against Yale has brought no end of encouragement to the Crimson supporters, and if things go well next season we may expect a return to the old-time crowds and enthusiasm.

In spite of the fact that they were watching the best race ever rowed by Yale and Harvard, the occupants of the observation trains yesterday were mighty lukewarm. Harvard received hardly a cheer for her effort. Was it because the Crimson adherents were dazed or was it because they were afraid to make a noise lest it would drive Yale to a sudden spurt which would leave Harvard far behind?

* * *

The chances are it was a lukewarm Harvard crowd to begin with. Successive defeats had calloused the Harvard hearts. It was a small Harvard crowd—at least, small in comparison with the throngs of former years. But now, as a result of Harvard's exhibition of rowing in all departments, her supporters will be encouraged to return to New London in force next year.

* * *

Will the enthusiasm be lasting, however, if Harvard continues to take Yale's water for the four miles as she has for so many years? And if not, what is the remedy? What is to be done to restore Harvard-Yale rowing to the old-time basis?

Nothing but a return to amateur coaching in its strictest sense. Then the "old grads" would be at New London in force just now they are staying away both at Red Top and at Gales's Ferry), and everything would be fine and the goose would hang high.

* * *

There could be many scrub races for "gent" crews, and in many ways things could be made pleasant for the "old grad." It would be worth while.

* * *

The three races resulted as follows:

Varsity four-oared race—Harvard, 11 minutes 22 seconds; Yale, 11 minutes 27 seconds.

CONN. LEAGUE.

At Bridgeport—Bridgeport, 4; Springfield, 3 (eleven innings).

At New Haven—Holyoke, 6; New Haven, 3.
At Norwich—Meriden, 6; Norwich, 4.

MISS SUTTON WINS TENNIS MATCH EASILY

LONDON, June 30.—Yesterday's tennis was marred by rain, and play had to be frequently stopped.

Miss May Sutton at Paddock, Cal., continued her successful foreign tactics, using a powerful forehand stroke to great advantage and beating Ida Langhurst, 6-3, 6-1. In the fourth round the American champion meets Miss Thompson. Last year's runner-up, and in case of winning, Miss Sutton will almost certainly take the championship to America.

In the second round of the gentlemen's doubles, Holcombe Ward and Beals C. Wright had a walkover, Pope and Powell having scratched. In the next round Ward and Wright will meet Baddeley and Thus.

DOUGLAS BOUTS OFF.

There will be no meeting at the Douglas A. C. to-night as the management could not secure a coast to help. Hiking and preferred to wait till next week, when a couple of the best boys in their class will get into the ring.

THREE EVENTS ON CARD AT OLD SAUGUS

JEFFRIES WILL NOT GIVE UP HIS TITLE

By Boston American Leased Wire.

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—The pugilist who succeeds to the title of heavyweight champion of the world will not have the pleasure of receiving it as a gift from Jim Jeffries.

It was rumored that the big fellow intended to present it to the winner of the Root-Hart fight at Reno, Nev., when he referees that bout on July 3, but the champion has denied this.

"I don't think it would be fair to hand the title to either man," he said. "They have not thoroughly qualified for it, and there are other and better men who are entitled to a look in for it. The man who wears it after me must fight for it, and fight hard for it, and I don't think it will fall to either Root or Hart to wear it. I shall referee the fight all right."

It is understood that Jeffries will receive $1,000 for refereeing the bout, and the big champion to-day started for the scene of the battle.

FILLEY WILL BE CAPTAIN ONCE AGAIN

Special to the Boston American.

NEW LONDON, June 30.—At a dinner given to the Harvard varsity eight Oliver D. Filley, '06, present captain of the crew, was unanimously elected to again head the Cambridge men next Spring. Filley appears to be very popular with the Harvard men, and his sterling work in yesterday's race was probably the cause of his being elected over Flint, who rowed No. 2.

Most of the men had their trunks and boxes packed before the race, and after the election of captain at Red Top left for their homes.

MORSE WILL LEAD YALE NEXT YEAR

Special to the Boston American.

NEW LONDON, June 30.—Immediately after the varsity race R. C. Morse, '06, was elected as captain of next year's first eight. His election was unanimous. Morse comes from Norwich, Ct.

He has rowed two years in the varsity, in his freshman year he rowed in his class. He was one of the best oars in the Yale shell this year. He is a popular man in his class and his election is looked on as a wise one. The other candidates for the captaincy were Kinnon, Chase and Weeks.

WILHELM TO SERVE AT PHILADELPHIA

Special to the Boston American.

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—After losing two games by a single run yesterday Fred Clarke's aggregation awoke this morning thinking of nothing but revenge—they mean to beat the Phillies this afternoon at the National league park.

Tenney will probably send Wilhelm to the firing box this afternoon and something in the line of a victory is about due from him. Wilhelm has not pitched consistently this season by any means and it is really up to him to turn the tables on the home team this afternoon.

Douglesby will probably be called upon to do the slab work for the home team. He is in good condition and if things break right he should make the Boston batters' average look like thirty cents in counterfeit, for the visitors are miserably weak with the willow.

It matters not how often the Phillies have to play these days. They win double-headers with as much ease as they do individual games. Yesterday they celebrated their seventh straight victory since their return to the home grounds on Saturday and their second double-header in the same time. This time it was the Cubs from which was lead to the slaughter. The Quakers won the first game, 3 to 2, and the second 2 to 1.

Both games of the Phillies won by bunching their hits. Of the two the second was the more entertaining. In it the Phillies had to fight against a peculiar combination formed by the umpire's rulings and Outfield's wildness. In this game Boston's only score was presented by the umpire, although he did it in obedience to rules.

This happened in the third inning. With Abbatichello on third and Dolan on second Catcher Adams dropped a pitched ball and it gently rolled back and grazed the umpire's shoe. No one observed it but the umpire, yet because he unwillingly interfered with the course of the ball he was obliged to present Abbatichello with a run. As soon as the crowd observed what he had done there was a terrible din, for not even the Boston players observed the interference or requested the ruling.

CITY REGATTA AT CITY POINT THE FOURTH

At a meeting of the City of Boston Fourth of July Sailing Regatta Committee, held at City Hall Yesterday afternoon, it was voted to plan the management of the regatta on the lines of the Yacht Racing Association of Massachusetts.

The race will be under the City Point at 11 o'clock as usual. Classes will be provided for Class B, Class C and Boat classification, prizes $5, $10, $8.5 and $2. Class X, Massachusetts Bay Bowlers, prizes $10, $6, $4 and $2. These three classes will be sailed under the Association rules, and will control the handicap proposition.

There will be two special classes. First Class—All yachts under 15 square feet, L. W. L., prizes $2, $10 and $5. Second Class—All yachts under 15 square feet, prizes $10, $5 and $2.

YALE OAR GIVES CUP FOR "GENTS"

Special to the Boston American.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 30.—The mid-night celebration of the Yale crew over its victory on the Thames last night and this morning gave the oarsmen and the fans hundred of their undergraduate friends a chance to mingle enthusiasm and things. On the top of the big tallyho, which met the oarsmen at the railroad station about 10 o'clock, the big form of Senator Chauncey M. Depew bounced up as the wildest of the rooters.

At the New Haven House speeches were made by all the officials, coaches, cup-winners and graduate advisers, and by all of the oarsmen who were not too tired. Julian Curtiss, the toastmaster, told an anecdote about Dick Morse, the captain-elect.

He said that Morse had recently offered him a job when he graduated, but suggested that he might have to start at the bottom of the ladder, and might get some unpleasant work.

"I don't care if it is cleaning spittoons," Morse replied, "if it gives me a chance to row for Yale in a few years."

Andrew R. Graves of Brooklyn has offered a $300 cup for competition in gentlemen's eights between Yale and Harvard. These races were inaugurated this year between the veterans of the crew quarters with one or two substitutes and Harvard won. Graves rowing on the Yale eight, although he was graduated thirteen years ago.

Graves's cup will assure a regular race between the veterans, and will bring to the quarters more former oarsmen than before, and promote good feeling between the two universities.

Prominent alumni of the university have also pledged a substantial sum to-day and the building of a new boathouse. The boathouse will probably be built before another year, however.

The capital Whitefield rally July 15 for Europe with Professor Sanford and Sir Edward Elgar. He will lunch at the Pomfret School the coming year.

BIG FIELD DAY FOR UNCLE SAM'S TARS

A big naval engagement of Uncle Sam's tars will take place at Provincetown on the Fourth of July if present plans materialize.

It will not be of a warlike character, as the occasion will be confined to athletic events, with all the Yankee man of warsmen in local waters in competition.

This big athletic tournament will consist of track games and baseball contests. It is proposed that a baseball game between the Maine and the Missouri juckits to be held beginning at 9:30 a. m., to be followed immediately by a tug-of-war between the Alabama and the Illinois, fifty men from each vessel to compete.

In the afternoon a track meet, in which the crews of all the vessels may compete. Not more than three entries allowed from a ship in any one event.

The program will be 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes, half-mile run, mile run, shot-put, hammer throw, running broad jump, running high jump, pole vault.

While these games are underway a baseball game between the Kentucky and Kearsarge will be played. After the regular events of the track meet there is to be a 50-yard sack race and an obstacle race.

No prizes have yet been assigned for the winners, but A. G. Spalding & Bros. have proposed a cup to be given to the ship winning the greatest number of points in the track events.

WILLIAMS WON FROM JEFFORDS

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—In one of the fastest ball games for a long time between the means, Jack Williams outpointed Jim Jeffords in a six-round bout at the Broadway A. C.

Jeffords outweighed Jack best men by fully twenty pounds, but Williams's speed proved this disadvantage. Williams clearly the fancies both in the early rounds and in the closing ones. Jeffords, thinking that he was ahead, worked in to an opening and Williams cleverly avoided his clever blows, and in the next three rounds he fairly

DAVE HOLLY BEAT CROSBY

READING, June 30.—In a bout as hot while it lasted, as any ever held in this vicinity, Dave Holly of Philadelphia put Steve Crosby of Louisville to sleep in the second round. The men were matched for ten rounds, but when Hopperell, after terrific fight, connecting with Crosby's jaw, put a quick termination to the fight.

CALDWELL IN WORKOUTS.

Harry Caldwell is at the Revere track riding every morning and afternoon in preparation for the six-hour race, three hours the night before the Fourth and three on July 4. In the race he will run against Robbie Whitfield, Hugh McLean and James Moran, three of the world's greatest pace-followers.

RACES IN JULY AT WORCESTER

Special to the Boston American.

WORCESTER, June 30.—With $5,200 lining up in purses, the Worcester Driving Park Company expects the largest and best-filled early Summer meeting it ever gave. The dates are July 11 to 14.

The classes follow:

First day—2:16, 2:20 pace, 2:30 trot.

Second day—2:17, 2:20 trot, 2:14 and free-for-all pace.

Third day—2:24 trot, 2:11, 2:20 pace.

Fourth day—2:18, 2:25 pace and 2:14 class trot.

Purses are uniformly $400. Entries close Friday, June 30.

OPEN GOLF AT NEWTON

The big open golf tournament of the Athenaeum G. C. at Newtonville, Mass., will begin to-day.

Invitation to all members of clubs belonging to the United States Golf Association has been extended to compete in the eighteen-hole medal play, the first matches of which will take place to-day.

There will be prizes for the best gross and the two best net scores.

The tourney is under the auspices of the Massachusetts Golf Association.

DO'S AND DONT'S FOR SUMMER GIRLS TO REMEMBER

A man resents being confiscated by any one girl, and the fact that she won't let him meet other girls gives them an added charm in his eyes.

Dorothy Dix Tells How to Have the Best Time During the Vacation

You want to be admired, to receive attention, perchance to catch a husband, to enjoy the pleasures and perquisites that constitute what is known in feminine parlance as "having a good time." Shall I give you a dead straight tip on the best way of achieving your desires?

Be unselfish.

Unselfishness is an old-fashioned virtue that has fallen into innocuous desuetude, I know. It is an accomplishment that isn't included in the modern girl's repertoire, but, believe me, it is one of the never-dying charms in a woman, and so if you want to be popular play unselfishness straight across the board to win, as our sporting friends say.

I have seen many a beauty, many a wit, many a rich girl with Saratoga trunks full of good clothes, sitting forlorn and neglected, while a homely little sprite, with scarcely a second frock to her name, but with a knack of considering other people, was sought after and had more invitations to agreeable life, entertainments than she could possibly accept.

Begin to practice unselfishness by showing some decent consideration for civilians, and they will take pleasure in other women on the train as you set out on your Summer journeying. The beast in their fathers, and their husbands, and their brothers who may be absolute piggishness that women display toward each other on the cars is enough to make angels weep.

Try to realize that because you have paid for one seat on a sleeper it does not give you the exclusive use of the car, nor entitle you to block the aisle with your luggage, nor guarantee a monopoly of the dressing room.

Most women think that it does, and the more inexperienced they are in traveling, the more they think it. This is an error. Every other woman on the car has paid just as much for her ticket as you have for yours, and has equal rights.

Of course, it seems to a girl that the most important thing on earth is her looks.

Because of this she thinks nothing of getting into the dressing room of a morning and barricading it against all of the other women for an hour or so she curls each individual hair and pile, massages her chin, and does her physical culture exercises, while a line of half-dressed and frowsy sisters stand in the aisle and vainly batter on the door and beg for the corner of a towel.

If any girl thinks that she looks prettier to these disheveled ladies, as she comes radiantly forth from her toilet, she is making the mistake of her life.

She appears to them nothing more nor less than a hideous incarnation of selfishness, ill-manners and provincialism, and she annexes them, and glares with indignation upon those who interfere with what she thinks are her exclusive rights.

It is true that nobody can stop her from taking the best of everything, if she is selfish enough to do it, but no young person can know how sweet and gracious and winning a young girl seems who does show deference to the old and consideration to the sick.

The girl who steals gently into her room at night because she knows the rest room is occupied by a nervous invalid, to whom being awakened means hours of sleeplessness; the girl who gives the most comfortable chair to an old lady; the girl who will take the trouble to chat to shy and lonely people, will find that she reaps such a harvest of popularity as the pretty, selfish girl never achieves with all her scheming.

And there is this fact to be borne in mind, little sister—that old people, and nervous people, and sick people very, very frequently possess most eligible sons, and that nothing inclines a man to show attention to a girl more than the knowledge that she has been nice to his own people.

Don't try to monopolize the few men on board for the sake of being the social charm in his eyes. In this way the selfish girl defeats her own ends.

Men like a girl who lays no claims to proprietorship in them, and from whom they can get away when they please, and it is the solemn truth that the unselfish maiden who shares her beaux and her chocolate creams with the other girls never lacks for either.

Thus is virtue its own reward.

Failure to Succeed in Life Is Usually Due to Lack of Power of Concentration in Your Work

NO one long connected with a large newspaper or periodical read by the masses can wonder why so many people in the world fail to succeed. The failure lies in the lack of concentration of the individual mind, the failure to think directly and clearly on any point.

For something like seven years it has been my privilege to talk to several million people three or four times each week through the columns of the Hearst newspapers.

Subjects which dealt with principles and emotions, ranging from the religious, philanthropic, economic, industrial, domestic and sentimental topics, have been discussed by me. These talks have been impersonal, only occasionally using some question or comment of a correspondent as a text, because it represented a type.

Never once has a personal or individual answer to any "initials" been given in this column, never once have fashion notes or menus or medical by the masses can prescriptions been given here.

Yet scarcely a day passes but some one writes and asks me to reply to A., B. or C. through the American to some whole explanation of personal question of no general interest, or to give recipes or fashion notes or other unreasonable information, which is entirely outside my domain.

Many of these letters are well written, and indicate that the writers are educated and possessed of a certain amount of intelligence.

But if so, why do they not use their brains? Why do they not reason before writing me?

No one would think of applying at a physician's door for lace to trim a hat, or of asking a clergyman for hair combs, or a school teacher for horseshoes. Why not use one as much sense, then, in writing to any department of a newspaper?

You will never on earth amount to anything if you let such inexcusably senseless impulses rule you.

The only way to build success for yourself is to use your brain power to some good purpose, and to direct your thoughts straight to their mark. No matter if that mark is only toward a pin cushion and your object a pin. Look at the cushion and take out the pin before you do anything else.

Do not go to the coal scuttle for the pin. You will lose time and make yourself relentless.

If you want a collar button go directly to the place where your goods they are kept. If you want a book, go to the book shelf and think about what you are doing.

Do not sort your thoughts wobbling about like a kite, the sport of every breeze that blows; they should be rather of the nature of lightning and speed to the mark and strike it.

Because you see a certain name in a newspaper or periodical, do not waste your precious brain stuff by sitting down and directing a purposeless letter to the owner of the name. The fact that it takes the time of that person is not so much matter as the fact that it makes your chance of ever amounting to anything just so much less.

A young woman who used excellent stationery, and who wrote an educated hand, recently asked me in a letter to send her information what to wear on a coasting trip. Another wanted me to tell her what to serve for a luncheon given to girl graduates.

I have written articles on either topic, and the women who asked me for the information ought to reason a little before sending me such letters. There are many excellent authorities on this newspaper who could supply them with the needed information.

If they had read the paper understandingly and kept their notions from wavering and shiftlng weakly from one thought to another while they read, they would have known to what department to direct those letters.

There is nothing about the two correspondents who asked me for this information, but I would be willing to stake my reputation as a prophet on the assertion that neither woman will make a success of her life unless this exercise causes her to readjust her mental habits.

The young woman who is about to take the coasting trip may be a good husband while away, but she will make a mess of her home when she is full as a social leader. Ten to one, she will fail in keeping her husband in love with her, too, for it requires a great deal of concentration to do that. And the man or woman who cannot think straight seldom loves straight.

Straws show the direction of the wind, and letters like these show the lack of positive, direct thought on the part of a writer.

To waste it and throw it away is to waste priceless wealth and opportunities of achievement.

Rev. Mr. George Gives Advice to Those in Trouble

By Rev. Albert E. George

UNDER this head Rev. Mr. George will give first aid to those in need of common sense advice on matters connected with their daily life and welfare. Make your letters short and to the point.

Editor Trouble Column:

YOU gave such excellent advice to a number of people that I should like to get your opinion about some domestic trouble I have. I have been married seven years, but circumstances made it a necessity that I must live in Boston and my husband in the country. It is now a year or more that we have been living strangely indifferent. It seems to be an effort for him to come or write the little love letters I used to get. When I question him he tells me that everything is all right, and that I must trust him. The whole thing makes me very unhappy, especially as I have no real charm in his eyes. In this way the selfish girl defeats her own ends.

Men like a girl who lays no claims to proprietorship in them, and from whom they can get away when they please, and it is the solemn truth that the unselfish maiden who shares her beaux and her chocolate creams with the other girls never lacks for either.

Thus is virtue its own reward.

writing love letters after he has been married seven years. Love shown itself in other ways after this interval of time.

Do you really reason him for getting comfort elsewhere? If you continue to be suspicious of him, pack up your "grip" and go to him at once. Give him every evidence that you love him, and if he is anything of a man he will reciprocate.

Editor Trouble Column:

WILL you kindly help me with a little advice. I am heartbroken and discouraged. I have tried so hard to get employment in one of the dry goods stores as saleslady. Unfortunately, having had no experience in that line of work, I find I am not wanted, although I learn very quickly if given only half a chance. I am sure I would give satisfaction as I am ambitious and energetic. Please give me some hope, for I am ready to end it all. MRS. B.

ABOVE all, do not get discouraged. It would be better for you to get employment at first in some small dry goods store. Department stores naturally seek experience, but your opportunity will come. All of us require perseverance and "things will take a turn" after a time. Go to the superintendent of even a large store, state your case clearly, show your willingness and keep calling upon him. Ask your friends to become interested in you. It is hard to get along without the aid of friends. A young man with a great disadvantage sometimes because so few are willing to intercede in her behalf.

Remember that hope and faith are the two great allies to help you all in one direction. And the man or woman who cannot think straight seldom loves straight.

Straws show the direction of the wind, and letters like these show the lack of positive, direct thought on the part of a writer.

To waste it and throw it away is to waste priceless wealth and opportunities of achievement.

SCARLET LIES

By X and Z, Authors of Married to Mystery

"YES, yes," she said, with a great effort, controlling her emotion, "you are right, Mr. Braine. I must be more careful. I—I must not give way like this. Oh, but can I trust you?" she burst out impulsively.

"Of course you can," he answered, stroking his pointed chin and smiling frankly. "And what is more, dear lady, you can rely on my doing what the clumsy police have ignominiously failed to accomplish, and that is avenge the murder of the man you and I, at any rate, know to be your son."

"Stephen," she breathed.

"Stephen Holland," said Braine, in a very low voice.

"If you do that," said the old lady with pathetic eagerness, "you make me your friend for life."

"And a greater reward I could not wish for!" exclaimed Fergus Braine gallantly. "But never forget, Mrs. Holland, everything depends on you and your caution and presence of mind."

"You can rely on me," she said, bravely. "I have played my part well all these years, have I not?"

"Indeed you have!" replied Braine encouragingly.

"And I am not likely to fail now—now, when nothing but harm could come of it."

"That's right," said Braine.

"You must forget our sudden breakdown," she went on. "It was the shock, you know. I never dreamed that a living soul knew the truth; and, when I found that you—that you were telling me that——"

"Forget it, dear lady," interrupted Fergus Braine. "Regard me as a ghost, as a shadow. What I know is buried deep in my heart. I shall serve you henceforth."

"But my dear Mr. Braine," exclaimed the old lady, with a look of dazed incredulity, "why should you? What object have you? What have you to gain?"

Mr. Braine was a born diplomat. He smiled diplomatically.

"I would do anything," he said, and his voice thrilled the old lady to the very core of her being; "I would do anything for the mother of the late lamented Mr. Stephen Holland, your son."

"Thank you—thank you!" she murmured in broken accents. Tears came again to her eyes, and she held out both hands to him. He took them and bent over them, kissing each reverently, as a subject might kiss the hands of his sovereign.

Then he left her.

"He is a good man," said Mrs. Holland to herself. "Whatever they say about him, he is a good man. I trust him implicitly. Ah, I might have known that Dora could not have been so deceived as Mr. Hesseltine says. Mr. Fergus Braine is a good man."

And Fergus Braine, as he walked along the spacious corridors of Holland House, toward his own apartment, said to himself:

"Give me women to deal with. I can put do what I like with 'em." His face was unruffled in a most contented smile. "And, as for this Holland case, it looks as if it is going to turn out a bigger thing than ever. By Jove, what a find—what possibility! Yes, give me women to deal with."

CHAPTER CXVII.

Touch and Go With Life.

"NUMBER 45," said the nurse, "seems much better this morning. He actually thanked me for my attentions, and remarked that it was a fine day. Now, what nasty beasts these Americans are! They have no gratitude."

She was a pretty Frenchwoman of about six or seven and twenty, and she was talking to a young French doctor on a sunny veranda of the hospital at Marseilles.

"The American has been very ill," said the doctor. "No one but an American, hospital, ma'mselle, if you were a monster without a heart. No. 45 is a case—"

"Is it love—eh, m'sieu'?

"Possibly—or money. It must be one or the other. A man dies for one of those things."

"He is a mysterious person, this American," said Sister Marie.

"A very interesting case," said the doctor.

"But his name? What is his name, m'sieu'?"

The doctor shrugged his shoulders.

"Who cares? He is No. 45. That is good enough—eh?

"But I am curious, m'sieu'."

"Nurses should not be curious, ma'mselle."

"Oh, you doctors are inhuman," laughed the pretty Sister Marie. "Why, I should be a monster without a heart if I did not want to know who Mary was—Mary, whose name was always on his lips during his delirium.

"It would be better for you and for the hospital, ma'mselle, if you were a monster without a heart."

"No. 45 is a case—"

"Who knows? Mary is a mysterious name. An Italian countess

STRUCK A FALSE NOTE WHEN SHE WED HARPIST

Mrs. Heinrich Schnecker No Longer Thinks Husband "a Winged Angel."

Musicians and music lovers of Boston and throughout the country will be amazed to learn of the discord in the romantic marriage of Heinrich Schnecker, the harpist, and Miss Stephanie Bailey, which has not only resulted in a separation of the couple, but has caused the husband to make preparations for an absolute divorce.

Mr. Schnecker is the harpist in the Boston Symphony Orchestra. When Stephanie Bailey, eighteen years old and very beautiful, came to this city from Seattle, ten years ago, to study the harp, she fell in love with the celebrated harpist. She says that she could think of nothing but winged angels playing harps when she heard him and that her love was genuine.

They were married and spent their honeymoon abroad. Then came a jangle in the harmonies of the household. The jangle developed into something rather fierce, and the wife now tells of subjecting the harpist, whom she had looked upon as an angel, to a number of severe thrashings of the most unangelic character.

Detectives Follow Her.

It was found that they had to separate and they did it, the wife says, on the advice of the court, quietly. An agreement was drawn up, signed by both parties on April 24 last, in which it was arranged that they should live separately and that Schnecker should pay his wife $100 a month alimony. Lee M. Friedman was a witness to the contract.

During their married life, up to the time of the final trouble, the couple lived at No. 322 Westland avenue, Back Bay. Mr. Schnecker still lives there. His wife me d to apartments in Newbury street, near the Public Garden, when she left her husband.

Since that time the wife says that her husband has had detectives on her trail to annoy her. Mrs. Schnecker has told her story to the BOSTON AMERICAN. It is the story of a girl infatuated and then disillusioned.

Thought Him an Angel.

"We were married eight years ago," said Mrs. Schnecker. "I came here from my home in Seattle to become a pupil of Mr. Schnecker. I was an innocent girl, and had passed practically all my life in an Episcopal convent. When I saw Mr. Schnecker and heard him play the harp in the beautiful way he can play it I fell in love with him. To me, then, it was all very romantic.

"All I could think of was the stories about angels and harps, and I think I must have thought Mr. Schnecker was one of the angels. I hardly did love him, but I was not very long in realizing that I had made a fool of myself. I do not believe that he really loved me, anyway, when I come to think of it. I am almost ashamed to admit that we were married by a justice of the peace. Mr. Schnecker is a Roman Catholic and I am an Episcopalian.

"We went abroad on our wedding tour, and he seemed to be ashamed of me. He tried in every way to prevent everyone seeing him pay me any attention. He adopted the German way of saying, 'Well, she's my wife now. I don't have to pay her any attention.'

Thrashed Him With Whip.

"After we had been married a year, I began to hate him, and I told him so. We lived together after that more for appearance's sake than anything else, and because his friends asked me to avoid a scandal, which would follow a separation. Many times I told him after that that I did not love him, and I have frequently called him a puppy dog, and once I held him by the throat with my hand and thrashed him with a whip. Two or three times I have taken him by the collar and shaken him like a rat, and I have seen him crawling about the floor with uplifted hands and begging me to forgive him. 'I love my wife. I love her dearly,' he would say.

"Finally, life became unbearable, and in March of this year I left him and filed a petition against him for separate support. I afterwards consented to sign an agreement under which he was to pay me $100 a month."

A clash between the estranged couple, which is said to have occurred Monday night, has brought matters to a climax.

Schnecker Won't Talk.

Mr. Schnecker, when seen to-day by a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter, refused to discuss the case at length.

"I have nothing I want to say now," he said. "My wife has brought all this trouble on me. I do not know where she is now. She made trouble enough here.

"Is it true, as she says, that she thrashed you and threw you on the floor?" he was asked.

"Well, —— no. I won't say a thing about it. She has talked. Well, let her talk. She only helps my case when she says such things. It is all her fault and I have had enough. She will see."

"About this episode on Monday night?"

"That I positively will not speak about now. In court is time enough for that. My lawyer may tell about it, but I won't. I want to be let alone."

"Ashamed of Me," Says Wife "All Her Fault," Says Husband

The wife says:

10,000 FARM HANDS STRIKE

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 30.—A revolt by 10,000 striking farmhands has occurred in the district east of the Danube River. They demand an increase in pay, which is now 15 cents a day.

In the neighborhood of Tamasi, thousands of the strikers are marching through the country destroying crops and burning property. The police in one encounter with the strikers, killed six of them, killing twenty-five.

A judge at Tamasi has sentenced 400 strikers to fine and imprisonment for breaking their contracts with their employers. Laborers to the number of 1,500 have been sent to the estate of the Archduke Frederick to replace the strikers.

ARTIST AND ACTOR ARE IN BANKRUPTCY

Harry E. Lane, an artist, of No. 10 West Water street, Wakefield, and William J. Humphrey, an actor, of No. 22 Warren avenue, Winthrop, have filed petitions in bankruptcy. Lane's liabilities are over $5,000 and his only asset is $1 in a copyright of a portrait of President Roosevelt. Humphrey's liabilities are nearly $2,000 and besides assets of $50 he has six suits of clothes.

2 STEAMERS FOR CANAL.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The Isthmian Canal Commission has concluded the purchase from the Ward line of the American steamers Mexico and Havana at $650,000 each.

NEWS OF LABOR.

As an impetus to the boom for an eight-hour workday to be inaugurated generally throughout the country next January, Boston Typographical Union is contemplating holding a convention in this city shortly of delegates from all the typographical unions of New England. The matter will come up at the next meeting of Boston Typographical Union No. 13 on July 23.

There is also a possibility of Union No. 13 parading Labor Day for the first time, holding a monster mass meeting in Faneuil Hall after the parade. At any rate, a vigorous campaign is to be waged by the union from now on in the interests of the eight-hour day. At the last meeting of the New England Typothetae resolutions were passed declaring that "under no circumstances will we submit to the proposed eight-hour day," which shows that the employers will not submit to the shorter workday without a struggle.

TEAM DRIVERS PROTEST.

Team Drivers' District Council has entered a protest against the action of the Board of Aldermen in granting the use of the streets in East Boston to a corporation to lay tracks in that section, and a committee has been appointed to bring the matter before the next session of the board. The council voted to do all in its power to have the various unions affiliated with the council parade in full force on Labor Day.

BURGE IS HONORED.

Fred A. Burge, one of the most prominent members of Boston Bartenders' Union No. 77, has returned from a four weeks' visit to his home in Kansas City. He was met there by a delegation from the Bartenders' Union and the Eagles, who entertained him royally during his stay in that city. It was the first visit he has made to his native home in five years.

LABOR NOTES.

Bricklayers' Union No. 1(?) has postponed its regular meeting from next Monday until July 10.

Officers will be installed at to-night's meeting of Stationary Engineers' Union No. 16.

Carriage and Wagon Workers' Union has called a special meeting for next Sunday afternoon at Hollis Hall to consider matters of importance.

Chelsea and East Boston Teamsters' Union No. 252 has postponed their next meeting from July Fourth to July 16, in Central Hall, Chelsea.

Business Agent Charles R. Sterling of Machinists' Lodge No. 264, who has been in St. John's, New Brunswick, has given a reception at his home to the members of the lodge on his return to this city.

LINER OVERDUE; MUTINY FEARED

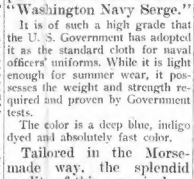
By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 30.—The Cunard liner Ultonia, which is expected to-day from Liverpool, is two day's overdue. On the voyage to Europe there were several fights between members of the crew and officers.

SECRETARY HAY GAINS STEADILY

NEWBURY, N. H., June 30.—Secretary Hay continues to gain steadily. Although still confined to his bed he is much improved, and will be able to sit up in a short time. Dr. Bradley of Boston remains at the Hay home, in case any unexpected relapse should occur. The family are very hopeful of his speedy recovery.

The highest-grade, lowest-price clothing that bears the Union Label is Morse-made.



The largest woollen mill in the world has produced a pure worsted cloth called "Washington Navy Serge."

It is of such a high grade that the U. S. Government has adopted it as the standard cloth for naval officers' uniforms. While it is light enough for summer wear, it possesses the weight and strength required and proven by Government tests.

The color is a deep blue, indigo dyed and absolutely fast color.

Tailored in the Morse-made way, the splendid quality of this serge is done full justice in the suits we're selling at $20. They leave nothing to be desired from the viewpoint of style, quality and fit.

At the price they are beyond a doubt superior to any other serge suit that can be bought anywhere.

Mr. Roosevelt and the Chinese

Another Case of "Charity Begins at Home"

The country is glad that Theodore Roosevelt became President. We needed a change from the cut-and-dried politicians, and we got it.

A series of accidents gave to the White House its present occupant.

But for the Maine's sinking, Roosevelt would not have climbed San Juan Hill—or Kettle Hill—and he would not have been Governor.

But for the political quarrels of the New York leaders, Roosevelt would not have been forced into the Vice-Presidency.

But for the murder of McKinley, he would not have become President.

And if he had not become President as the result of accidents, and got hold of the Republican machine, the politicians would never have allowed him to be nominated by the Republican party.

Just how much good Theodore Roosevelt will do, we do not know. He has not DONE anything so far, except to give us some earnest talks on the value of big families and the abstract beauty of being always good and always ready to fight.

He PROMISES to do various things to the big public thieves. He MAY do some of those things, although it is all PROMISE as yet.

While waiting and thinking about taking action in regard to the wrongs which the American people suffer at the hands of the Trusts, Mr. Roosevelt has just taken very decided action in regard to the wrongs which HE THINKS THE CHINESE PEOPLE SUFFER AT THE HANDS OF AMERICANS.

The first decisive act, without promise or hesitancy, that has marked Mr. Roosevelt's administration as an elected President, is THE PRACTICAL ABOLITION OF THE CHINESE EXCLUSION ACT.

Our laws keep out Chinese workmen, coolies and others that would compete with American labor and ruin American civilization.

The law allows certain Chinese students, merchants, statesmen, travellers, etc., to come to this country and travel about freely.

Once a Chinese gets inside of the country, THERE IS NO WAY OF GETTING HIM OUT.

Hitherto the alleged travellers and statesmen from China have been examined very closely. Their official indorsements have been scrutinized with great care.

Complaints have been made by Chinese travellers about the difficulty of getting into this country. These complaints have been justified in some cases. The careful examination of a man's papers means inevitable delay and, sometimes, detention.

But the complaints, as a matter of fact, have come more vociferously from the Trust gentlemen who want to employ Chinese coolies than from Chinese students and merchants.

Mr. Roosevelt, by an order issued and signed with his name, has practically put an end to the exclusion of the Chinese.

He says to all of our officials that the Chinese who brings here a certificate of one of our Consuls in China MUST BE ADMITTED WITHOUT QUESTION. The fact that he has a certificate must let him in absolutely.

The agitation which has resulted in Mr. Roosevelt's practically abolishing the Chinese Exclusion Act has been worked up carefully.

OUR BIG EMPLOYERS OF LABOR WANT COOLIES. They work hard; they are cheap; they will break the backbone of union labor very quickly, if the chance is given them.

The first demand was for coolies in our Philippine possessions.

Then came a demand for coolie labor to dig the Panama Canal.

Then came an alleged threat from China to boycott our goods.

THAT CHINESE "BOYCOTT" WAS WORKED UP AND "FAKED" UP HERE IN THE UNITED STATES.

Those interested in importing coolies sent word to their agents in China that the Chinese merchants should denounce our exclusion act and threaten to buy no more American goods.

The scheme worked very well. The Chinese fell in with the idea, as it didn't cost them anything.

A few meetings of Chinese students and others were held—Roosevelt and the rest in the United States learned with horror that we were all to become bankrupt because the Chinese wouldn't buy any more cotton goods of us.

Now Mr. Roosevelt, who has at his mercy the Government inspectors of every port and all of our Consuls abroad, has told these Inspectors and Consuls that they must stop their nonsense about worrying Chinese students and statesmen that want to come to the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt, mind you, is sincere and honest.

He has had long talks with Chinese scholars, with Dr. Kin, that wonderful, learned little Chinese lady who has been travelling about the country.

He has determined that the country over which HE RULES shall be polite to Chinese immigrants if HE says so.

HE HAS SAID SO, and the reception of Chinese here will be different hereafter.

Do you know what the result will be?

In the first place, there will be a nice field for graft opened to our Consuls at Chinese ports. You know, perhaps, that some men who look for jobs as Consuls are not above graft.

Many thousand coolies will cheerfully pay a few hundred dollars for a consular certificate. Ten dollars more will buy them a hat with a colored button, a cheap silk shirt and silk thread for their queues that will make them look like perfectly good Chinese gentlemen.

If they haven't the money themselves to pay for the Consul's certificate and the silk suit, the big Chinese companies will gladly supply it—every coolie landed here would be dirt cheap at a thousand dollars.

Some of our Consuls—the majority, let us hope—are honest.

But these will be deceived by the Chinese, most crafty of all races. And they will be deceived all the more easily as they will understand from Mr. Roosevelt's order that the Chinese are in his good graces just now and must not be irritated.

There are in China, at a low estimate, ten millions of Chinese entitled, under our laws, to come to this country as travellers, merchants, students, etc.—and bring their WIVES and CHILDREN with them.

These men entitled to certificates from the Consuls will GET those certificates. THEY CAN GET THEM ONCE A YEAR. How could the Consul prove that they didn't use the certificates themselves?

How can he prove that they do not turn over their certificates to the companies importing coolies? They won't risk Roosevelt's wrath, anyhow.

Under Mr. Roosevelt's order, the Consuls MUST GIVE CERTIFICATES TO PROSPEROUS CHINAMEN THAT DEMAND THEM.

And under Mr. Roosevelt's ruling, the United States Inspectors MUST ADMIT AT ONCE ANY CHINESE BRINGING A CERTIFICATE.

Hitherto contraband Chinese reaching this country have got in with great difficulty.

But under the new order, with a bogus consular certificate and the cheap silk shirt, they can not only come themselves, but bring in women and children.

A Chinese woman is worth from five hundred to a thousand dollars the day she lands in San Francisco. Chinese girl children are VERY valuable there and elsewhere in the Chinese settlements.

The Chinese question has taken on a new aspect in America, thanks to our enthusiastic young President's sympathy with the woes, more or less imaginary, of the travelling Chinese student.

We shall be BREEDING Chinese, in addition to importing them.

However, it is safe to say that this state of affairs will not last VERY long. Mr. Roosevelt is strenuous and determined. But he is not more strenuous and determined than the American people, taken as a whole. He will find that out.

The American people don't WANT Chinese coolies in this country, and they are not going to HAVE them here.

Mr. Roosevelt's order will probably result in outbreaks against the Chinese, deeply deplorable. As an intelligent man he will probably realize that he is responsible for these outbreaks. He will see that his attempt to protect the individual Chinese traveller has injured ALL the Chinese here and brought demoralization upon the country.

He will then QUIETLY change the order given SO LOUDLY now.

In the case of Mr. Morton of the Santa Fe road, and in other cases, Mr. Roosevelt has proved that he can stop both loud and soft. He has sung loud on this question of his desire to right all wrongs, a la Emperor William.

He will sing soft later on, when he finds that the American people don't mean to have [illegible]nate Chinese immigration—even to please Mr. Roo[illegible]ght and wrong.

1. MRS. SNOOKS—John, I have bought this paint and this nice brush. I want you to paint this porch chair, and if you do it nicely I have eight or nine more for you to do.
MR. SNOOKS—Heavens! I must get out of this somehow.

2. MR. SNOOKS—If I do it nicely she has eight or nine more for me to do? Oh, I'll do it nicely. I do so love to paint porch chairs.

3. MR. SNOOKS—Ain't I doing fine, dear? I've nearly finished this one already. Oh, I'm a great painter, I am. If there is one thing I like to do it is to paint porch chairs. Let her go, Gallagher.

4. MRS. SNOOKS—John Snooks, stop it! Stop it this very minute. What do you mean? I told you to paint the chair, not give it a paint bath. You've used a whole can of paint on one chair. Drop that brush. I will not allow you to paint another chair, no matter how much you like to do it. So there, now.

Show Courtesy to the Man with the Trolley

By Frank K. Foster

SINCE the days, not so long ago, when Mark Twain set the public humming his jingle about the horse-car conductor "punching with care" his "pink trip slip for a five cent fare," etc., there has been an enormous increase in the number of employes on of street railways, until there are in the United States, at the present time, nearly if not quite 150,000 men in the street railway service.

Three-fifths of this number are motormen and conductors, those patient and long-suffering people with whom the public comes in daily contact; the modern charioteers of the sun with whom eternal vigilance is the price, not alone of the lives of their passengers, but of their own situations.

The introduction of mechanical traction upon street railways has been productive of radical changes in the industrial condition of these men. There is slight valuechange between the leisurely bobtail cars of the old regime, apparently going nowhere in particular and in not much of a hurry about it anyway, and the powerful modern electrics whizzing along at the rate of thirty or forty miles an hour.

On the former, the normal workday was fourteen hours long, while a maximum of seventeen hours was not unusual. While this was a "killing pace" on the horse car, it is a physical impossibility on the electric, with the far greater strain on both the motorman and the conductor. The great majority of these men now work from nine to thirteen hours, ten hours in twelve being the normal limit.

In this connection, however, should be borne in mind that seven days constitutes a week's work, and that there is no regular Sunday holiday upon any of the large systems.

Contrary to the prevailing idea, street car service is not a comparatively hazardous one. According to official reports, while the death rate on steam railroads in 1902 was one in 125 among trainmen, among wage earners on street railways it was one in 1,095.

A distinct improvement in the health of street car employes has been noted since the vestibuling of cars in cold weather and the consequent protection of motormen. Twenty-five States have passed laws requiring vestibules.

In ten States laws have been enacted establishing a maximum working day and a maximum period of time during which the day's work shall be performed. These laws, whenever tested, have been pronounced constitutional by the Supreme Courts of the States, the public service nature of the corporations affected contributing to this result.

In an analysis of wages paid by 345 of the largest companies, the Bureau of Labor finds that the average rate is twenty cents per hour, the Boston rate thus coming well above the average.

While street car service is by no means exempt from peculiar physical ills, yet the fact that the employment is an outdoor one leads to its adoption by men of many varied industries, who are seeking improvement in health. Not alone may ex-members of skilled crafts be found either at the "business" or pilot end of the electrics, but professional men as well.

For the man with a philosophic and observant turn of mind life under the trolley has its compensations. Not only does he come in contact with all sorts and conditions of men and women, constantly changing, but they are usually men and women without their company manners, in a state of natural selfishness and oftentimes hoggishness.

All those standard subjects for the pen of the paragrapher, the end-seat monopolist, the fat man in a hurry, the woman who persists in getting off backwards, or from the wrong side of the car—these are the real properties of the trolley man, serving to tickle his fancy when once he has acquired that professional nonchalance without which his equipment is incomplete.

Then the trolley car to him becomes a replica of the greater world outside, with its quarrels as to precedence, its mighty fuss about trifles, its perpetual comedies and infrequent tragedies, its mad haste to get somewhere and its equal frenzy to get back again, its queer jumbles of would-be dignity, finical finery and universal seediness. One need not travel in far countries to know his fellow beings, if he mans either the "juice" or the till on one of these leviathans of the streets.

Vast numbers of our fellow citizens spend from one to two hours daily upon the trolley. As it is the little things which make up the bulk of life, a contribution to would be made to the sum of social good temper if courtesy was the rule rather than the exception among the masses who come under the daily supervision of the man with the trolley.

The Red Flag

By Wex Jones

The red flag is being raised in all parts of Russia.—News Item.

THERE'S a flag all nations ken,
And a flag no nation owns:
It springs from the blood of murdered men
And is muttered by women's groans.
When the suffering peoples rise
No blazons their ensign vaunts,
But bright before opened eyes
The dread flag, the red flag, flaunts.

'Tis the flag of the barricade,
The flag of the blood-run street,
When the rulers by bullet and blade
Their embattled subjects meet;
When might is no longer right,
The tyrant is no longer a god;
When the trooper turns in fight
From the peasant he deem
The red flag waves, and the crows
As the blazing palaces or
Forgotten a people's thraldom woke
For joy of the musket's flash.
"Death to the tyrant!" rings the cry,
"Freemen or corpses we!"
When the dread, red flag is lifted high
And a trampled folk fights free.

Every One Has the Right to Be Happy

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory

IT is every man's duty to try and be as happy as he can. The light is "sweet," the sunshine is "a glorious birth," laughter and joy are "blessed things"—and when these angels of gladness come our way we should never turn our backs upon them, but welcome them with appreciation and thankfulness.

In the old days, it is true, they used to think that to be sorrowful was a dangerous thing! According to the old-time way of thinking, when a man began to feel happy he was being hypnotized by the devil; was, in plain words, being headed for that sooty personage, for the place where overcoats are not worn.

In the days of our grandfathers and grandmothers it was the honest opinion of most people that the more miserable they were the more God loved them, and that the spirit of gladness was an infallible sign of the fact that the party manifesting it was on the road to the "Everlasting Bonfire."

We no longer believe such foolishness. Nowadays the doctrine is everywhere admitted that God is perfectly willing that His children should enjoy themselves and be glad in as many ways as may be possible.

We are now prepared to accept the proposition that if there is anything in this world that is holy and divine it is happiness, the joy of hearts that are glad, the bright eyes, ringing laughter and happy songs of those who are enjoying the life that God has given to them!

Fack your life as full of enjoyment as you can! With the arms of your mind reach out and gather in the sunshine. In your heart let the flowers bloom! In your soul let the glad music sound! Be happy!

We should heartily congratulate ourselves upon the fact that human happiness is a steady growing quantity.

There is more joy in the world to-day than there ever was before, and there will be more a hundred years from now than there is at the present time.

The march of Humanity is upward—where the light shines, there joy abides. The old superstitions, the old tyrannies, are dying out—slowly, to be sure, but steadily—and every day the human lot is getting to be brighter and brighter, fuller and fuller of that for which we can afford to be thankful.

Everywhere Humanity is becoming more and more erect, freer, wiser. Everywhere Science is becoming more and more powerful. Everywhere man's kingdom over natural forces, and over the lower and meaner forces of his own being, is more and more establishing itself.

And as a result of all this the fund of human joy is being enlarged. More and more the sunshine of hope is coming into human life! More and more human existence, from being a curse, is becoming a blessing and a joy.
